Highway Hearing Tonight On Widening of South 65

A public hearing will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Smith-Cotton High School to discuss the proposed improvement of Highway 65 from Route F in Pettis County to one-half mile south of the Pettis-Benton County line.

The proposal is to construct a second 24-foot (two-lane) pavement east of the present pavement to be separated by a 60-foot median.

The limited access highway will have a total right-of-way of approximately 250 feet. Access rights will be purchased from all adjoining properties. Access will be provided at all public crossroads by means of at-grade intersections and cross-overs, the Highway Department reports.

Property which does not have direct access to a crossroad will be provided access by means of entrances or outer roadways located so as not to isolate any property.

Relocation assistance will be available to families which will have to relocate because of the project, the department said.

This improvement, along with a similar project in progress to the north, will result in a four-lane divided pavement from Sedalia south to one-half mile south of the Pettis-Benton County line.

All interested parties are invited to attend the hearing. Written as well as oral statements will be received at the hearing. Any written statement received by Aug. 25, will be taken into consideration, the department said.

China, Russia Battle

TOKYO (AP) — Fighting broke out between Soviet and Chinese troops today on the frontier of Sinkiang Province, home of Peking's nuclear arsenal and missile-testing grounds.

Red China charged that several hundred Soviet troops under cover of two helicopters invaded Sinkiang and there were many Chinese casualties.

The Soviet government a little later charged that Chinese troops penetrated Russian territory and there were casualties. The nationality of these was not stated.

The official Soviet news agency Tass reported that the Chinese were thrown back into their own territory and two of their officers were detained. It said the clash occurred near Semipalatinsk in Kazakhstan across from Sinkiang.

A Chinese-language broadcast by Radio Peking said more than 10 tanks and armored cars were among the forces that penetrated more than a mile into Sinkiang, site of Red China's nuclear testing grounds.

Chinese border troops went into action and in the following skirmish several Chinese border patrolmen were killed or injured and several Chinese troops were encircled, the broadcast claimed.

Then the Russians sent in more troops, the broadcast continued, and further clashes were expected.

The fighting centered in the Tieliekt area of Yumin County on Sinkiang's northwestern border with the Soviet Union, Radio Peking said.

The Foreign Ministry in Peking lodged a protest with the Soviet Embassy, denouncing the "intrusion" and demanding the immediate withdrawal of the Russian troops. Otherwise the Soviet union must face the consequences of the action, the note said.

Sinkiang Province, in the northwest corner of China, long has been a trouble spot. The Russians have accused the Chinese of initiating border incidents there. The Red Chinese have leveled similar charges and accused the Russians of kidnapping residents in the province.

Sinkiang has long been of interest to the Russians.

WEATHER

Mostly cloudy and continued warm tonight with chance for showers or thundershowers. Variable cloudiness and cooler Thursday with showers ending by midday. Clearing and cooler Thursday night. Low tonight mid 60s. High Thursday 80 to 85. Rain probabilities tonight 50 per cent, Thursday 30 per cent.

The temperature Wednesday was 67 at 7 a.m. and 84 at noon. Low Tuesday night was 67.

Auto Inspections Might Cost State

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A modified version of Missouri's state motor vehicle inspection law passed by the 1969 Legislature would not jeopardize federal highway funds immediately but it would if the law is not strengthened within three years.

That was the word to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today from John A. Volpe, U.S. Secretary of Transportation.

Hearnes asked Volpe's advice before deciding whether to sign or veto the bill. As passed, it would require safety inspection of only brakes, lights, tires and horns.

This is much weaker than the law which went into effect earlier this year.

Larson, music teacher at Smith-Cotton; and Andrew Barker, Smith-Cotton industrial arts instructor.

A leave of absence was granted to Mrs. Linda Williams, Heber Hunt teacher, for the 1969-70 school year.

Immediately following, the board voted to authorize the superintendent of schools, Dr. T. J. Norris, to fill any existing vacancies, as well as those vacancies which might occur before the opening of school.

It was noted at the 7:30 p.m. meeting that the actual cost of

Thousands Welcome U. S. Space Heroes

NEW YORK (AP)—America's moon voyagers came to a tumultuous hero's welcome in New York today, riding through a torrent of ticker tape and confetti in a triumphant and historic motorcade along streets thronged with thousands upon thousands of cheering people.

Paper piled up ankle deep at spots along the way as New Yorkers poured out their hearts at the start of a massive, cross-country day of celebration that would take the astronauts westward later to Chicago and Los Angeles.

This was no Sea of Tranquility they came to on this beautiful, warm and sunny day—it was New York at its fullest, its throngs hailing the moonmen whom earthbound Americans soared with in spirit on one of the epic adventures of the ages.

Cheering, shouting, happy New Yorkers lined the streets, five, six, seven, eight deep on both sides of the streets to see the men who went to the moon.

Rice and small dots of paper punched out of computer cards floated down. So did the computer cards.

Astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, 39; Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., 39, and Michael Collins, 38, were joined in their journey through the city and across the nation by their wives and children.

"It sure is a lot of paper," said Joan Aldrin.

Twice the motorcade stopped for ceremonies honoring the three men, at New York's City Hall and at the United Nations. Later there would be more ticker tape in Chicago and a state dinner in Los Angeles with President Nixon.

"This is one of New York City's great moments," Mayor John V. Lindsay said of the city that also welcomed Charles A. Lindbergh after this New York to Paris flight of 1927.

"We have honored many voyagers before—men who sailed around the world, men who flew alone across the ocean.

"But today we honor three men who forged the first link between earth and the stars. Today we honor three men who have affirmed the best we have within us.

"All that New York has given today—its cheers, its praise, its medals, its glory—is dwarfed by (See THOUSANDS, Page 4A.)

Says Abuse Of Phones Punishable

Persons contributing to Sedalia's growing problem with nuisance telephone calls have been reminded by Bob Johnson, manager for Southwestern Bell, that a state law makes it unlawful for any person to place such calls.

Specifically, the law makes it a misdemeanor to place annoying, lewd, abusive, threatening or harassing telephone calls. Maximum punishment calls for up to one year's imprisonment, a $1,000 fine, or both.

False emergency calls are continuing to be an especially serious problem in Sedalia. Fire Chief Emmett (Potts) Vaught said his department has received about half a dozen false alarm calls in the last two weeks, making nearly 40 calls so far this year. Vaught said 1969 was shaping up as "one of the worst" years for such calls.

In addition, Sedalia's two ambulance services report that phony calls have been a serious problem. The Pettis County Ambulance Service said 10 to 15 calls over the past month were false, and the Sedalia Ambulance Service said "many" false alarms had been received there recently.

Johnson added that individual reports of nuisance and harassing calls have also been received by the phone company.

"When the telephone becomes a source of annoyance or terror to even one customer, it is a matter of serious concern to us," Johnson said.

"Although line identification is by no means the only way, or even the most effective way, of solving most annoyance call complaints, we now have available several techniques for identifying the telephone number from which offending calls are made," Johnson explained.

To help discourage annoyance calling, Johnson suggested the following steps:

1. Hang up if the caller doesn't say anything, or at the first obscene word. Also, hang up if the caller doesn't identify himself to your satisfaction. Don't keep talking. This only encourages him to persist.

2. Call the telephone business office if annoyance calls persist, or if you receive a threatening call. The company will cooperate fully in dealing with the problem.

Johnson added that when several calls are received, it

Pettis County Child Welfare Panel Set Up

Adam Fischer was elected chairman of the newly-formed Pettis County Child Welfare Board at a meeting held at the state welfare office Tuesday. Harry Browder was named vice-chairman and Mrs. William Lusk was named secretary-treasurer. The board will meet on the fourth Tuesday of each month.

Browder, Mrs. Joe Rains and Dr. James Burkholder were named to a committee to draft bylaws for the board. Others attending the meeting were Kenneth U. Love, Mrs. Ben Wallace, Mrs. Dick Van Dyne, Mrs. Frances Amodeo and Mrs. Carolyn Hendrickson.

The board is designed to strengthen and extend child welfare in the county. The committee will interpret services available and assist the welfare staff in obtaining the best assistance possible for Pettis County children, according to board officials.

Scene of Fatality

Train-Tractor Crash Kills LaMonte Youth

(Democrat-Capital Service)

DRESDEN — Phillip Russell Jones, 19, Route 2, LaMonte, was killed in the violent collision of a tractor he was driving and a Missouri Pacific train about 5:59 p.m. Tuesday 1.9 miles west of Dresden on a gravel road just off U.S. Highway 50.

Jones was operating an Allis-Chalmers tractor northbound on the road and was struck by MoPac Train No. 41, eastbound into Sedalia.

According to the engineer, Jones approached the crossing, saw the train and attempted to escape the collision by jumping from the tractor. Although Jones himself was not struck by the train, the engineer reported, flying parts of the tractor struck and killed him.

The body was found 75 feet from the crossing, the rear end assembly of the tractor 180 feet away and the engine 450 feet distant, according to Trooper Charles Pieper of the Missouri State Highway Patrol. The train was traveling about 80 miles an hour.

Missouri Pacific officials had to use an acetylene torch to cut part of the train's front assembly away so it could continue.

Deputy Coroner Dr. J. M. Rodeman pronounced Jones dead at the scene.

He was a junior at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, and a member of the First United Methodist Church, LaMonte.

He was employed for the summer by the LaMonte Elevator Company.

Surviving are his parents; one brother, Mark, and three sisters, Carol, Jane and Joy, all of the home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Jones, 649 East 10th; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ida Russell, LaMonte.

Tuition Raised By School Board

Out-of-district students will be paying considerably higher tuition to attend schools in the Sedalia school system this fall, following action by the Sedalia board of education Tuesday night.

The board voted to raise the fees for high school and elementary students to $477 and $540 respectively, compared to previous charges of $410 and $390, respectively.

The tuition is paid by the school districts affected, R-12 (Dresden and Oak Grove), Striped College and High Point. A total of 134 students from the districts are attending Sedalia schools, only 12 of which are elementary students. Private students will continue to pay their own expenses.

Dr. Tom Norris, superintendent of schools, said higher salaries and increased costs of equipment and services necessitated the increase. He said the first small increase in tuition in several years was made last year, but was not enough to bring tuition in line with expenses, thus the second increase this year.

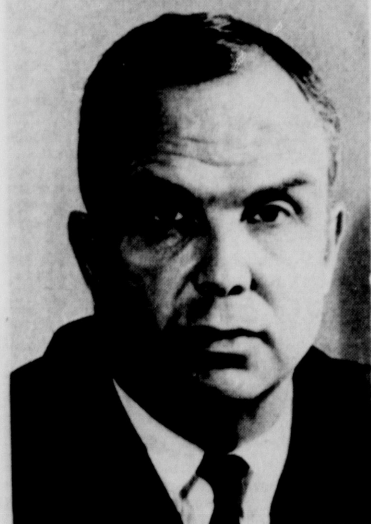

In preparation for the opening of the 1969-70 school year, the school board also voted on several issues necessary for opening day.

These items included the acceptance of Jim Cramer's low bid for piano tuning of $10 per instrument, the acceptance of Callie's bid of $229.50 to replace 49 window shades, and the bid of $153.60 of University Publishing Co., Kansas City, to furnish 32 stools for a science lab.

The board also voted to accept a driver's education car from both Bryant Motors and Routsong-Malmo Motors.

Resignations were accepted from Lovern Momborg, cook at Washington School; Sandra

Expect 'Blanche' To Lose Strength

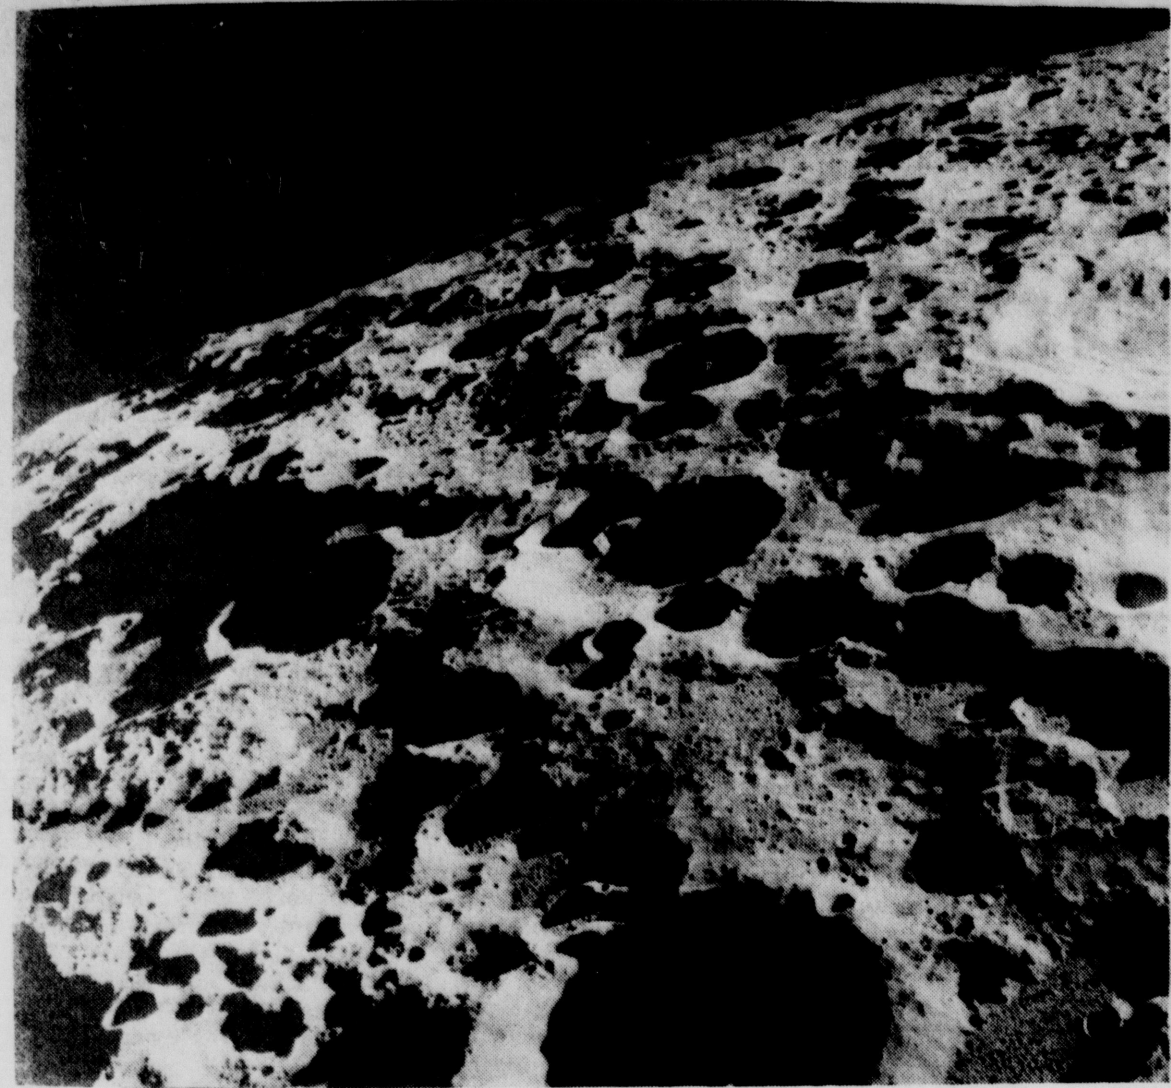

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical Storm Blanche moved through the north Atlantic today at a pace expected to render it impotent.

"It'll probably gradually weaken and it might never made it to western Europe," said forecaster Paul Hebert at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

Blanche carried winds of 65 to 70 miles an hour at last report, although reported losing strength. Hurricane force is 74 m.p.h.

The thin booms, which would make the spacecraft measure 253 feet long if fully extended, were to experiment with a theory that gravity can act on an appropriately shaped satellite to keep one side always toward earth, much as the same face of the moon always looks at this planet.

The flight plan called for the satellite to settle in a stationary circular orbit 22,300 miles high.

State Fair Theme Carried In BPWC's August Meeting

The decorations at the Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday evening, Aug. 7, at Bothwell Hotel, in the Missouri State Fair theme were very gay and the entire program followed in the same vein of fun and facts.

The program committee with Mrs. Jessie Goist, chairman, presented Mrs. Mary Louise Waldrep, music chairman, who led the group singing, ending with Jim Edward's "The Sedalia Song" which stresses: "We've got the big State Fair in our home town."

Mrs. Goist stated that the theme of the BPW Federation this year is "Build, Plan and Work." She told of the awards offered for achievements, including one for more membership participation. With that she introduced the Tater sisters, Mrs. Dick Tater, represented by Mrs. Juanita Teegarden, knew exactly how everything in the club should be run and wanted to take over.

Then there was Mrs. Irri Tater, who didn't care too much for the meetings, and didn't want to do anything except serve the refreshments, which would get her out of the room. She just didn't know why somebody always rubbed her the wrong way. This part was taken by Miss Cecile Tillbery.

Mrs. Hesi Tater, impersonated by Mrs. Dorothy Boyd, wanted to do things but just couldn't make up her mind what to do.

Miss Imi Tater, who was Mrs. Martha Deck, always had to do what she saw the others doing. If the woman next to her stood up, she stood up. She waited to see how someone else voted and if the one next to her gave money for something so did she.

Mrs. Juanita Hood took the part of Miss Agi Tater who was always stirring up something. She liked to repeat gossip. "It's not the truth that counts," she said, "but what people believe."

Miss Spec Tater was Mrs. Mary K. Hunter, who just went to have some place to go and didn't want to do anything. She always went to BPW if there was nothing else to do.

All were dressed up in comical costumes.

But the Tater girls had a cousin who didn't know what to do about them. She was Miss Partici Pater, the part taken by Miss Helen Giokaris. She couldn't understand the attitude of the others because she was always ready to participate in anything she was asked to do.

Then Mrs. Goist introduced the telephone committee. Taking part in this was Mrs. Irene Dreck, who outlined the skit in which she, Miss Edna Mae Kirchhofer and Mrs. Harriet Shaw, participated. This, too, was clever, for they carried on humorous conversations, part ad libbed, of someone on the telephone committee trying to get reservations from other members.

Mrs. Martha Deck, chairman of the personal development committee, introduced Jackie Deck, her daughter, who attended Girls State, and Becky Speaker, who attended 4-H Camp, both sponsored by BPWC.

Jackie told of going to Girls

State at Stephens College, Columbia. She said she was a little scared at first, but she found the other girls were, too. She felt this feeling was relieved by the wonderful counselor who put them all at ease.

Jackie was elected police judge. She told of talks made about government in which she was interested and said they had fun at night sneaking around trying to make posters for their candidates. Jackie said she would never forget this experience and the friends she made.

Becky said that the theme of the 4-H Camp was "Today's Decisions Shape the World of Tomorrow." The week was making decisions and every one was a challenge. The decisions were not always right but decisions, said Becky, never are. She told of being shown how elections were conducted, of the 4-H chorus and other interesting experiences.

Mrs. Nyra Price, Mrs. Mildred Bowman and Mrs. Vivian Warren gave interesting accounts of all phases of the recent golden anniversary of the National Federation of BPW Clubs held in St. Louis. This, too, was in the form of a skit, with each telling things in which they participated.

One of the outstanding events of the convention, Mrs. Bowman said, was the landing on the moon at the start of the convention.

Mrs. Warren told of the gold card she received for securing five memberships for five years straight.

Mrs. Price stated that the installation was very different, taking members through the years from the beginning to today, with popular songs of each era.

Miss Erma Fajen, president, presided over the meeting, and stated she was very proud of Mrs. Warren receiving the gold card.

Invocation was by Mrs. Bertha Welch, chaplain.

Guests introduced by Mrs.

Juanita Teegarden were: Mrs. John Brown, guest of Mrs. Martha Deck; Mrs. Lucille White, guest of Miss Fajen; Mrs. Margie Percival, mother of Mrs. Juanita Hood. Major Marjorie Webber, a former member, guest of Mrs. Mary K. Hunter; the two girls, Jackie Deck and Becky Speaker, guests of the club.

Mrs. Loyce Askew invited members to attend the Missouri State Fair. She had loaned to the club for decorations the beautiful piece of red velvet and red and white roses which will be given to the world's champion three-gaited race winner at the Fair.

The tables were decorated with miniatures of sights at the Miss State Fair. Miss Fajen had a bouquet of bright colored balloons with birthday names in them. Mrs. Teegarden blew up the balloons and Miss Fajen ventured forth with them to walk the block and a half to the hotel. There was a sudden bang-bang and two of the balloons burst. As she walked along Ohio she felt silly carrying the bunch of balloons and as she stood on the corner waiting for the light to change she was certain that this was not the way this should have been done. She said she should have had them blown up after she got to the hotel. But the balloons added just the right touch to the Missouri State Fair decorations and it was fun hearing them pop, too.

Plenty of Plants

HOMERVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Deer tongue, a plant that's used for tobacco and medicinal drugs and which grows wild in swampy areas here in Clinch County, is in plentiful supply this year.

C. W. Blitch, who's been buying and selling it for more than 12 years, says he'll handle about 350,000 pounds. Deer tongue, also known as Indian tobacco, was smoked by Indians long before any other type of tobacco was known.

Missouri Valley College Orientation Set Aug. 31

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — Missouri Valley College will open its eightieth academic year on Aug. 31, when all new students are due on campus for their first orientation meeting.

Orientation and registration continues on Sept. 1, 2 and 3, and classes will begin at 8 a.m., Sept. 4.

For the first time in the college's history the first semester will end prior to the Christmas holiday. A new calendar has been adopted which calls for the first semester to end on Dec. 22, and for the second semester to begin on Jan. 15.

New members of the faculty are: Douglas D. Spencer, Ph.D., vice-president for academic affairs with the rank of professor; Alton E. Harris, Ed.D., chairman of the department of education; Dr. George F. Brock, M.A., associate professor of education; Richard S. Furr, M.S., assistant professor of biology; Larry O. Fleming, M.S., instructor in accounting; John R. Campbell, M.A., assistant professor of business administration, and Mrs. Martha A. Luzader, M.A., instructor in English.

New staff members are Paul N. Fredstrom, Ed. D., vice-president for student personnel services; and Stephen E. Wood, M.S., director of the new College Center. Byron B. Banta, M.A., director of admissions, has taken on the added duties of registrar, and Thomas E. Twetto, Ph.D., former academic dean, will devote full time to teaching history and political science.

In Ranks

U.S. Air Force Chief Master Sergeant John L. Polilli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrea Polilli of 141 Drexel Road, Ardmore, Pa., is on duty at Binh Thuy AB, Vietnam.

Sergeant Polilli is a radio maintenance superintendent in a unit of the Air Force Communications Service. Before his arrival in Southeast Asia, he served at Bergstrom AFB, Tex.

His wife, Grace, is the daughter of W. T. Owens, Marshall.

Sedalia Cemetery Board Re-elects Walch as Head

Harry W. Walch, 711 West Broadway, was re-elected president of the Sedalia Cemetery Board at a meeting Monday.

James Van Wagner Jr., 1629 West Fifth, was elected vice-president, and Mrs. Clyde Waters, 405 East Fifth, was re-elected secretary.

Rehired as superintendent for one year was Floyd McFarland. McFarland gave a progress report on Crown Hill Cemetery at the meeting, stating that most of the roads in the cemetery were now either hard surfaced or oiled and that there were about 50 dead trees on the property that should be removed.

The new addition to the cemetery, McFarland said, is being cleaned by removing all unsightly obstacles.

Discussion of recent vandalism at the cemetery centered around measures of punishment to be used in the future against those responsible. The board indicated it feels that the current problem has been settled.

Purchasing of a mechanical grave digger for usage on a trial basis was also discussed.

Other members of the board are Mrs. Marvin Crutcher, Sr., Mrs. Charles Van Dyne, Jack Bloess and Francis Rudd.

Girl Didn't Fall
As Guy Lost Out

Dear Ann: The guy I love is on pot. It's making a vegetable out of him and a nervous wreck out of me.

When we first met, Steve was a top student. He had a magnetic personality and a thousand friends. About eight months ago he became sloppy in his appearance and seemed to lose his sense of humor. He turned into an argumentative bully and got into trouble with everyone. I knew something was wrong when he started to skip class and forget where we were supposed to meet. One night he fell asleep during a play which I found fascinating. The following day he confessed he had been on grass for nearly a year.

Steve dropped out of school in April. His motivation is gone. He is confused and disoriented. I cannot reach him. I'm not asking for advice, Ann. I know what I must do. I can't save him so I must save myself. The purpose of this letter is to support your testimony that marijuana is bad news. — Witness To A Bad Scene

Dear Witness: Thanks for the testimony. I'm glad you didn't go down with him. I've received many letters from girls who started blowing grass because their boyfriends did, and Heaven help them all.

Dear Ann Landers: Much has been written about the young girl who has an out-of-wedlock child because of a deep-rooted, perhaps subconscious wish to hurt her parents. What about the out-of-wedlock father? What do the behavioral scientists say about him?

Our son informed us that he and Natalie wanted to get married. Natalie is a lovely girl, from a fine family, and we were delighted. They had gone together for three years. After all the wedding plans were set and the invitations mailed, our son told us, without batting an eyelash, that Natalie was three months pregnant.

The bride's parents were stunned and so were we. It's too late to cancel the wedding. The kids must have known for several weeks but they didn't bother to tell us. Everyone in town is counting. We are humiliated. Why did our son do this? — The Bystanders

Dear By: Do what? If you mean why didn't he tell you about Natalie's condition sooner, probably because he just found out about it himself.

And what do the behavioral experts say about out-of-wedlock fathers? They say young, unmarried men do not link sex with pregnancy. It's the "now" thing that interests them, not what might happen later. The news of a pregnancy is often a huge surprise to the prospective papa — as if he didn't know what caused it.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I wrote to you about a very personal matter. Since I mailed the letter I've been wondering what to say to my husband if he gets to the mailbox before I do and sees a letter from Ann Landers. Your name does appear on the outside of the envelope doesn't it? Please advise. — Comes The Dawn

Dear Dawn: No. When I send advice, the letter is mailed in the envelope provided by the reader.

Student Loan Vote
Is Left Dangling

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the start of college classes only weeks away, Congress has left the guaranteed student loan program hanging in limbo.

The Senate voted 92-1 Tuesday to revive the student loans, but the House couldn't resolve a squabble over student rioting and will delay action until after Sept. 3 when the congressional vacation ends.

Sponsors of the bill argued that passage this month was essential so college-bound students could get the money necessary for many of them to continue their education.

College officials have estimated that 200,000 students may be denied aid for the coming college year if Congress fails to act.

The Senate bill makes Aug. 15 the effective date in the hope that banks will trust Congress to take final action on continuing the loan guarantees.

Fearing another fight over campus riots, House sponsors refused Tuesday to take the bill to the floor under the usual rules permitting amendments. Members wanting to add anti-riot provisions refused to allow the bill to be taken up under a no-amendment arrangement.

The loan program is in trouble because the cost of borrowing money has risen to 8½ per cent interest or higher, while the student loans have a 7 per cent interest ceiling.

To Three Persons

NEVADA, Mo. (AP) — Three persons, including a woman, were killed in a four-car accident on U.S. 71 about one mile north of Nevada Tuesday.

The highway patrol identified the victims as Daniel W. Laferty, 59, of Tallmadge, Ohio, Willie Lee, 64, and Shirley Green, 26, both of Kansas City.

Forces Roll Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., forced a roll call vote Tuesday as the House authorized as many as 15 members of its Post Office committee to travel to Europe and Japan during the next few months.

The vote was 196 to 132.

An encephalitis epidemic in Ecuador recently infected more than 40,000 people, causing 400 fatalities. A mercy mission of United States Air Force planes checked the sleeping sickness outbreak by spraying insecticide on 259,675 acres of coastal lands.

Santa Maria's Repair Job Delayed

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Santa Maria, a replica of Columbus' famous flagship damaged in June, remains high and dry with few willing to tackle the task of repairing her.

A spokesman for the Santa Maria Corp., a consortium formed to operate the wooden caravel as a tourist attraction, said Tuesday not one of 20 shipyards asked to bid on repairs was willing to do so.

A St. Louis engineering firm, Parks Engineering and Construction Corp., said it would repair the vessel in six months for $150,000 while another St. Louis firm said it would do the work and figure the bill afterwards.

The vessel has two gaping holes near the stern suffered when high winds sent the fragile caravel into a pier June 28. The boat was one of two sent drifting downstream during a storm.

The spokesman, Wayne Mil-sap, said the Santa Maria was insured for $200,000 when the mishap occurred. The boat was purchased from an ailing Washington-based concern for $375,000 and towed to the St. Louis riverfront where it operated as a tourist attraction for two months prior to the accident.

The 1970 PGA championship will be played at the Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa.

Denny Shows Slides
To Optimist Club

James T. Denny presented the program at Optimist Club Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel showing slides of his trip to Europe with many witty remarks along with his description of places in the various countries.

The pictures included many flower gardens with those of Holland particularly beautiful.

Denny had many colorful pictures of England, including the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace, well known historical places of that country and others, and famous paintings and cathedrals in Rome. He also had pictures of the audience with the Pope he attended and the Shrine of Bernadette of Lourdes where thousands of people go to bathe.

In Ireland Mr. and Mrs. Denny visited her cousin and family. They had a car and one of the children asked him if he wouldn't park his car in front of their house, saying "It's the only time we ever had a car parked in front of our house."

In Ireland, he found the big item of food is cabbage. Cabbage was served at every meal, he said. He had many interesting pictures of Ireland, some of horse carts and one of the milk man going home with the old milk cans in his cart.

Dr. Russell Drenon told of the success of the Little League which has won the right to go on to Ottumwa, Iowa.

He told of the county fair in Ireland, and the heather, the fragrance of which could be smelled from a distance.

Denny had pictures of Warwick Castle, both exterior and interior, which showed it in its original state. He also had a picture of the coronation chair, the oldest piece of furniture in England.

The speaker was introduced by Carl Koch, program chairman.

A guest was James LaRocca, Houston, Tex., grandson of Denny.

The meeting was presided over by the Rev. Charles Hendrickson, president.

Kenny Schlib, boys work chairman, told of the plans for Optimist "Friend of the Boy Day" which will be held at the Missouri State Fair Monday.

Optimist Clubs from over the state will bring boys to the fair for the day.

Investigation
Gains Steam

HILLSBORO, Mo. (AP) — A preliminary investigation to see if Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, has broken any state laws is under way by Jefferson County Prosecutor William Weier.

Weier, a 25-year-old Republican who was elected in strongly Democratic Jefferson County last year, said Tuesday he wants to determine if Blackwell's recent marriage to his 26-year-old legal secretary, Carolyn Sue Ravenscraft, warrants legal action.

On Blackwell's marriage license application in Las Vegas, Nev., it was indicated he divorced his first wife in February of 1967 in Nevada.

The Internal Revenue Service said it is investigating the basis of a joint income tax return filed for 1967 by Blackwell and his first wife. Such a return requires the couple to be married on the last day of the year.

Weier said "I'm not interested in making a political football out of the case." He said he wanted to see what his preliminary investigation turned up before commenting further.

Burial will be in Mt. Herman Cemetery.

The body is at the funeral home.

Say Labor Problems Are Worse in City

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Labor problems in the St. Louis area have gotten so strained that labor is picketing labor and management is picketing management.

That's what the situation developed into Tuesday when the strikebound Southern Illinois Builders Association posted pickets at East St. Louis area construction sites of non-members who were employing members of Ironworkers Local 392.

The ironworkers and cement masons struck the association for higher wages after their contract expired July 31.

In St. Louis it was out-of-work pickets from the Carpenters Council picketing work at 11 construction sites because ironworkers of Local 396 were working during their own strike.

The ironworkers in St. Louis have been out for 11 weeks in what the Associated General Contractors called "a disastrous strike."

Missouri's Crime Level Above Average

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation reported today that Kansas was well below and Missouri slightly above the national crime level in 1968.

Statistics showed a national index of serious crimes averaging 2,235 per 100,000 population last year, an increase of about 16 per cent from 1967.

But the Kansas crime index figured out at 1,480 per 100,000 residents while Missouri's was 2,265.

Breakdown disclosed that in violent crimes—murder, rape, robbery and assault — Kansas last year averaged 150 crimes per 100,000 population and Missouri 329 against a national average of 295.

In the classification of crimes against property—burglary, larceny and automobile theft — Kansas in 1968 averaged 1,330 per 100,000 population while Missouri had 1,936 against a national average of 1,940.

Total crime indexes for last year per 100,000 population listed Kansas City (including Johnson and Wyandotte counties in Kansas) 2,990; St. Louis (including Madison and St. Clair counties in Illinois) 2,900; Springfield, Mo., (including Greene County) 1,479; Topeka (including Shawnee County) 2,061 and Wichita (including Sedgewick and Butler counties) 2,155.

Tuition

educating a single student in high school during the previous year was $476.64, and that the cost of educating an elementary school student was $536.69.

The board also approved the purchasing of U.S. Treasury notes in the amount of $300,000 from the teachers fund for a period of five to six months. It was pointed out that notes in the amount of $500,000 will be maturing as of Aug. 31.

Payment of bills from the previous year totaling $25,303.41 was approved.

would be helpful to the company if the victim keeps a log of the dates and times of the calls. He said, too, that the victim should try to listen for unusual voice inflections, background noises or other clues which might help an investigator.

Johnson said telephone employees have been given special training in how to counsel and aid customers who receive annoying and harassing telephone calls. And in cases involving threats to property or bodily harm, the company will respond immediately to assist customers and law enforcement agencies, he said.

what you three men have done.

At the United Nations, Secretary-General U Thant cited the words on the plaque the astronauts left on the moon. "We came in peace for all mankind."

"The words are few," he said, "but they spell out the common identity of all the inhabitants of this planet and our never ending search for peace."

As countless office workers leaned out windows along the route, others pressed against windows sealed tight in air conditioned buildings high above the crowded streets.

Some had trouble seeing the astronauts, so thick was the ticker tape and confetti.

The astronauts arrived a little early for their 3 hour, 15 minute stay in New York, arriving aboard Air Force One, the presidential jet, at Kennedy Airport, named for the president who committed the nation to the lunar goal.

Aboard U.S. Marine Corps helicopters, they shuttled to the foot of Wall Street, landing there to step to the pad amid an odd silence. But as the whistles and toots of the fireboats and tugs on the East River began, so did lusty cheers that were to follow the three men throughout their time in New York.

Policemen jogged alongside the limousines as the motorcade made its way through Wall Street, slowly at first, then picking up speed as it neared City Hall, where excited children of city officials lined gray police barricades.

"How was the trip to the moon?" shouted a spectator as the party entered City Hall.

"It was wonderful," Armstrong said, pausing and waving. "Wonderful."

Janet Armstrong, wife of the first man to set foot on another planet, was silent but waved enthusiastically and smiled along with her husband.

"I love it," said Patricia Collins.

With their parents, were the Armstrong sons, Eric, 12, and Mark, 6; Kathleen Collins, 10; and the Aldrin children, Michael, 13, Andrew, 11, Janice, 12.

Dr. Thomas Paine, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and U Thant also rode in the motorcade.

Outside City Hall, dozens of persons climbed trees and lampposts for a better view. Someone set off fireworks.

When the astronauts appeared in the doorway of City Hall, a thunderous, rolling cheer erupted from the crowd of 10,000. Automobile horns blared.

With their hands placed over their hearts, the astronauts listened, with all the others, to the U.S. Army band playing the National Anthem.

Terence Cardinal Cooke, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, prayed:

"Oh Lord of the universe, we thank you for the safe return of these three courageous men... who went to the moon for peace for all mankind."

The ladders from two aerial fire trucks formed an arch of triumph nearby, and on it was a picture of a huge bald eagle, its wings spread, touching down on the surface of the moon.

POWDER LINE

By Lynda Bernhardt

If the following notations should seem somewhat incoherent, I must confess that I have just returned from my vacation and my mind and body have not yet begun to function as a working unit as of this writing.

I cannot say it is good to be home, because I just visited home on my trip, but I will say it was good to be back there. Where's home? Well, it's about 800 miles from here, known as the crossroads and heartbeat of the Southeast — Atlanta, Georgia. It can be a confusing city, but with some inside information one can spend an enjoyable week or two there. Lack of space prohibits giving you a complete rundown, but here are a few of the things one can enjoy.

First of all, if shopping is your bag, you will have found your place in Atlanta. It is possible to spend all day in just one of the stores. You can also purchase something you may never see worn by anyone else though you may see several of the same item when you make your selection.

For the entire family, there is Six Flags Over Georgia where an entire day can be spent before you know it. Rides, restaurants and shows abound here and it takes all day to really see everything. After two doublings on the log jambooree ride, we took a breather at the puppet show. We then traveled the dangerous swamp on Jean Ribout's riverboat and somehow managed to survive an Indian attack and cannon fire from the British fort.

Other highlights of the day included a bird's eye view of the entire area from something called a skyhook and a bat's eye view (upside down, that is) from a turning and spinning ride called the wheelbarrow. Needless to say, we returned home in the evening tired but happy, having thoroughly enjoyed escaping into childhood.

For nightlife, it is hard to beat Atlanta, especially if you like "soul" music and rhythm and blues. One of the best places is Soul City — owned by Mr. Dynamite himself, James Brown. Each week big name entertainers in the R & B field appear here and if you're lucky, late one evening, The Man, himself, might just drop in with free champagne for everyone.

Now it is a well known secret that the confederacy is alive and well in Atlanta. That firebug, General Sherman, just didn't know what he was starting when he began playing with matches.

Underground Atlanta is on the move and quite a place it will be. It's a city beneath the city, part of the original Atlanta of more than a hundred years ago. Gaslight walkways, antiques and many buildings with the original walls, floors and ceilings have been or are being restored. Restaurants, lounges, boutiques and arcades await the visitor's enjoyment, and there's a progressive jazz group no one should miss.

Atlanta can offer the visitor glimpses of the future while he stands beneath the shadows of the past. It is a city that has risen from the ashes to grow and expand by leaps and bounds; but, a city that never forgets its heritage; a city proud of its past. Atlanta is my city, and I'm proud to call it home.

All-weather Hit

On target for a beautiful day or a shower is the Rain-cheetah by Naman in a vibrant cotton bull's-eye print of plum, beige and brown. Cut in a flared silhouette with a rope collar, cuffs and welt pockets, its Zepel rain-and-stain repellency extends its versatility to take in any kind of weather.

O. Price, Knob Noster.

GANDER, BRUBAKER and HITE

The Gander, Brubaker and Hite families held their annual reunion August 10 at Liberty Park. A basket dinner was served at noon.

Families from Sedalia, Bunceton, Otterville, Independence, Chicago, Ill., and Topeka, Kan., were present.

The 1970 reunion will be held the second Sunday in August at Liberty Park. Cecil Hite has been selected president for another year.

4-H Council Meets

The Pettis County 4-H Council met July 30 at the courthouse with president, John Atkinson, presiding.

Yvonne Gieschen explained the method in which premiums are paid to participants in the 4-H livestock show. She noted that since the process is complicated, premiums probably will not be paid before September.

Mrs. Nolen Gieschen was nominated and elected treasurer for the 4-H Council.

A discussion on the continuance of the Share-the-Fun Festival was held and it was voted to continue the event for the coming year.

Mrs. Emmett Fairfax reviewed the summer project and read the project summary.

"Do you really think I'm going to spend the next few years of my life trying to recall what I am glad to forget?" Veteran actress Sylvia Sydney when asked if she contemplated writing her autobiography.

Rogers Are Honored At Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Rogers, 908 Crescent Drive, were honored August 3 with an open house given by their daughters, Mrs. Robert Long, Mrs. Burl R. Sammons, both of Sedalia, Mrs. Charles E. Sevier, Raytown and Mrs. Max E. Easley, currently stationed in Mannheim, Germany with her husband, Lt. Max E. Easley. The occasion honored the 25th wedding anniversary of the Rogers.

Miss Mary Ellis and Kenneth E. Rogers were married at Sedalia on August 5, 1944.

A white maderia cloth covered the dining table which was centered with a floral arrangement of white pompons. White tapers in silver candelabra flanked the floral arrangement.

Serving were Mrs. J.D. Russell, Jane, Mo., sister of Mr. Rogers, and Mrs. L.E. Wharton, Marshall, sister of Mrs. Rogers. Miss Melody Wharton, niece of the honorees, assisted with the gifts.

Miss Melissa Wharton, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, attended the guest book which was displayed on a table arranged with a large white candle and floral arrangement of white and silver pompons.

Among those attending were the honorees' daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Long, Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. Burl R. Sammons, Sedalia and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sevier, Raytown.

Party Honors Mrs. Stokes

VERSAILLES — Mrs. Glen Stokes was guest of honor at a retirement party and contributive supper held August 5. Mrs. Peal Lowry, fellow employee at Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Eldon, was hostess for the event, assisted by Miss Leslie Young.

Among those attending were the honoree's husband, Mr. Stokes, their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stokes and children, Versailles; and Craig Lee, Flora, Ill., nephew of Mrs. Lowry. Also present were Mrs. Kenneth Mulchy, Osage Beach; Mrs. Vincent Staudenraus, Versailles; Mrs. Roger Shepherd; Mrs. Cecil Apperson, Jr.; Mrs. Robery Maylee and Cathy; Dwight Strood, Eldon, former fellow employees of Mrs. Stokes.

Mrs. Stokes, who retired after 20 years of service, was an operator with Ozark Central Telephone Co., before coming to Southwestern Bell.

The honoree was presented with a savings bond from her fellow employees as well as individual gifts. Local 6301 presented Mrs. Stokes with a life membership.

Brother and Sister Serve

Pvt. David Byrd and Airman Apprentice Janet Byrd are home on leave visiting with their parents. They are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Byrd, Route 5, Sedalia. Miss Byrd is serving with the U.S. Navy Waves in the air control field. Pvt. Byrd will soon report for duty in Vietnam.

Club Notes

HOUSTONIA — The Woman's club of the MFWC met recently for a trip to Lexington where they had a luncheon and toured the Anderson House. From there they went to Ft. Osage and Truman Library.

Those making the trip were Mrs. James Blackburn, Mrs. Oscar Rothrock, Mrs. J. C. Higgins, Mrs. Henry Vincent, Mrs. James Houchen, Mrs. Kathleen Noonan, Miss Loretta Livers and Miss Mary E. Tevebaugh, all of Houstonia, and Mrs. Robert Leftwich and Mrs. Cloyd Leftwich, Hughesville.

CALIFORNIA — Mrs. H. F. Dahler, devotional leader, opened the recent meeting of the Day Guild of the United Church of Christ with a prayer and a reading of "Smiles."

Delegates to the U.C.C. Summer Conference which was held July 18-20 at Westminster College, Fulton, gave the program. Mrs. C. L. Brenton, Miss Lydia Weisser and Mrs. Marvin Kirchhoff gave talks on the conference theme, "The Shape of our Hope." The three main topics were Faith, Hope and Love.

Mrs. Leon Embry, president, conducted the business meeting.

CALIFORNIA — Mrs. C. B.

Butts was the hostess at the recent meeting of the Kurnjous Club in her home.

Mrs. Paul Clenin, president, conducted the business meeting. Attorney A. L. Gates, guest speaker, gave a talk on wills.

The hostess served refreshments following the meeting.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS 1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge...small, easy-to-take tablets...special sizes for children and adults.

Paperware Matches Mood

Gypsy Theme

Summer entertaining takes on a festive air when a party motif is used. A buffet party planned around a gypsy fortune-telling theme takes its decorative cue from numerological glasses (center) by Libbey. For the mod-minded there are geometric designs (left) and classic designs (right) in paperware that mean less cleanup work for the hostess. Truly space-age color combinations of pink, blue, green and orange with a vivid yellow background or the more elegant scroll pattern in green and white help a hostess decorate with little frustration.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The Age of Aquarius continues to influence designs touching all aspects of the home. Closely allied to all things astrological is a renewed interest in gypsy motifs for parties.

Many a hostess gets out her crystal ball (the gold fish take a night off in the lavatory while their bowl adds mystique to a table), wraps a red bandana around her head, serves a gypsy stew (Brunswick) and everyone is happy.

Decorating a buffet table is made easy with a broad collection of paperware or glassware with suitable motifs. A set of numerological glasses features numbers from one to eight in heavy gold on a bright blue ground. They make everyone feel Numero Uno. Continue the gypsy feeling, using red-and-navy cotton kerchiefs and the table covering can be a length of undyed burlap or coarse-textured, natural-colored linen cloth.

There are designs and colors in paperware to match the gypsy party mood. For those who enjoy the conversation stirred up by palmistry, numerology or hand-writing analysis, a pack of Tarot cards for future-gazing will pique their interest. A gypsy party stimulates ideas.

Picnic: A State of Mind

By AILEEN CLAIRE

A picnic is not a time or place but a state of mind, although according to Webster it is an "outing with food...eaten in the open."

During the hottest days cook all poultry and meats thoroughly and chill so they will be safe and tasty to eat. Freeze filled sandwiches in foil and they will thaw during a trip. Chill salads and relishes and wrap everything separately to retain flavor and to keep juices from seeping into bread or cupcakes.

PICNIC CHICKEN

- 3 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
 - 3 teaspoons salt
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons monosodium glutamate
 - 2 cups flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - 2 teaspoons dried leaf tarragon
 - 1 teaspoon dried leaf marjoram
 - 3/4 cup butter or margarine
 - 1 cup buttermilk
- Sprinkle chicken pieces on both sides with 1 1/2 teaspoons salt and monosodium glutamate. Mix together flour, remaining 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, pepper, tarragon and marjoram. Divide butter between two 10x15x1-inch baking pans lined with heavy duty aluminum foil. Place in 425-degree oven 5 minutes, until butter melts. Dip chicken pieces in buttermilk, then roll in flour mixture. Place skin side down on baking pans. Bake in 425-degree oven 25 minutes. Turn chicken pieces and reverse pans in oven. Bake 20 minutes longer. Refrigerate until time to pack for picnic. Makes 12 servings.

MARINATED VEGETABLE SALAD (12 servings)

- 1 1/4 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon chopped chives
- 2 teaspoons dried dill weed
- 1/4 cup wine vinegar
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) white kidney beans, well-drained
- 2 cans (1 pound each) whole green beans, well-drained
- 1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, well-drained
- 2 cups diagonally sliced celery

Mix salt, sugar, dry mustard, pepper, chives and dill weed. Add vinegar and oil; shake or beat until well blended. Add to vegetables. Refrigerate overnight. Makes 12 servings.

Computer Data Banks Record Secrets Provided by Supersnoops

LONDON — (NEA) — The average Englishman has suddenly awakened to the fact that his home is no longer his castle. Far from being an impenetrable fortress his home is subject to invasion from a dozen secret sources including curious computers, "bugs" in the bedroom and taps on the telephone. Unfortunately for British-American relations, most of the hardware used by the snoops comes with a "made in America" label. Of all the supersnoops that threaten the average citizen, Parliament is most concerned about the computer. There is nothing intrinsically evil about the computer, but the way it's being used (or abused) in the United States and Britain alarms parliamentarians. Data banks are being set up in both countries to store computerized information on millions of citizens without their knowledge, according to B.J. Hargreaves, director of public affairs for IBM (UK) Limited, itself one of the biggest manufacturers of electronic equipment. Hargreaves predicts that these data banks eventually will store not only birth, marriage, school, military and employment records, but such detailed private information as income, charge accounts, medical and health records and "moral hazards"—i.e. heavy drinking, extra-marital affairs. The United States, which is far ahead of Britain in these matters, has perfected a laser process whereby 650 million bits of information can be stored on one square inch of tape. A single reel can store up to 20 pages of information on every man, woman and child in America. All of this was brought out during a congressional investigation into invasion of privacy, but Britain (which usually lags behind America from five to 10 years) has just awakened to the fact that Big Brother is also on its doorstep. Microphones no bigger than a pinhead, vest-pocket cameras, radio transmitters built into eyeglasses, hearing aids or coat buttons and radio pills (which turn victims into human transmitters as soon as they are swallowed) are all too common here. Ben Jamil, a New York manufacturer of these "bugging" devices, was refused a license to demonstrate his wares at a U.S. Trade Fair held in London, but many of them have found their way onto the British market anyway with private detectives doing most of the buying. Britain has over 15,000 private detectives, or "inquiry agents," as they are known in genteel circles. Many of them specialize in divorce cases and their methods are anything but genteel. If it weren't for good old American knowhow, their job would be much harder. Adultery is almost the only recognized grounds for divorce and the detectives will go to almost any length to get evidence. Judges have begun to crack down on private eyes who resort to invasions of privacy, but even if the divorce detectives are forced out of businesses, the industrial spies, who gobble up all the hardware they can get, will be a lot harder to eliminate. Recently Ian Withers, a self-proclaimed industrial spy, showed how spying devices could be concealed in a book, a briefcase or even a bowler hat.

It's all very upsetting to the British, who get as much of a kick out of James Bond-type razzle-dazzle as Americans do, but who have thought all along that such things were purely in the providence of books and films. Now they know better. Orion, Mich., is reported doing well. Since it was founded in 1956, the Lake Orion home has helped almost 500 Catholic priests and brothers recover from alcoholism.

Second Sanatorium To Help Alcoholics

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — A sanatorium for the rehabilitation and treatment of alcoholic Catholic priests and brothers, the second in the nation, will be dedicated and formally opened in Rochester Sunday. Called Guest House, the project was founded almost 20 years ago by author, lecturer and recovered alcoholic Austin Ripley. A first project in Chipewa Falls failed for lack of financial support in the early 1950s, but another Guest House, located on a 90-acre site at Lake

Hearnes Opposes Proposal

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today tagged President Nixon's welfare program as a guaranteed annual income plan "despite the fact that he publicly opposed this idea in last year's campaign. Calling it a "family assistance program" as the president did is just a matter of semantics, the governor said, because it "is clearly a proposal for a guaranteed annual income."

The president's proposal for a direct sharing of federal revenue would be a further erosion of the powers and responsibilities of state and local governments, Hearnes said in a statement. "However, many heads of local governments either feel this is not important or they feel their need for money is more important. It is therefore my opinion this money should be channeled directly to the cities for local needs."

Hearnes said the other two proposals in the president's speech came as no surprise. "I had suggested in a speech last year that the Office of Economic Opportunity become an

Make Nice Hand Puppets From Worn Wool Socks

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. W. B. K. would find that worn wool socks are good for making hand puppets. Use some buttons for eyes, yarn for hair and a bit of ingenuity. They might even be cut and stitched into mittens for the children.—MRS. R. A. A.

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. W. B. K. could split the good tops of discarded knee socks and sew them together to make a beach blanket or football lap robe.—DIXIE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My husband's recliner chair is upholstered with naugahyde. This has become coarse and hard where his head rests. Any Pointers on how to restore this fabric to its original texture would be appreciated.—MRS. B. J. B.

DEAR POLLY—Toddlers learning to use a fork and spoon usually end up with more food on themselves than anywhere else and really mess up those pretty bibs during a meal. I solved this by turning the bib with plasticized side out and the pretty printed terry cloth next to the body. I even turn the "crumb catcher" inside out. After each meal the bib is easily wiped off with a damp cloth, the life of the bib is lengthened and the colorful side is saved for special occasions.—AMY

DEAR POLLY—I am a newlywed who has found it a very good investment to buy a few inexpensive books, toys and so on to have on hand when my friends with children come to visit. This has saved a lot of wear and tear on my new furniture and fancy accents as the kids love having something to keep them busy.—MRS. D. R.

DEAR POLLY—The Pointer about using a tile as a memo pad helped me solve a problem. Every time I relax in the tub I think of many things that should be added to the grocery list or that need to be done. I tied one end of a string securely to a pen and the other end to the tub faucet. Now I make any notes or lists on the tiles and they can be washed off later. By this same method, other family members help by writing down toilet items as they are needed.—MRS. J. B.

Stars Play Gaylord, Michigan, Thursday In the First Game of Ottumwa Tourney

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Never in the history of Little League baseball in Sedalia has there been a team to advance so far in the playoffs to the Little League World Series as the 1969 squad of American League All-Stars.

The World Series of Little League baseball is the high point of tournament play, bringing together the regional winners in a week-long round of educational activities and baseball competition at Williamsport, Pa.

But let's not get ahead of the situation at hand. To qualify for series play in Williamsport, the Sedalia Little League All-Stars of the American League have one more giant step to take: Win the tournament at Ottumwa, Iowa, which starts Thursday.

The tourney, like all other Little League tournaments, will be a single elimination setup. The three other teams in the playoff will be Gaylord, Mich., Evergreen, Ill., and Elyria, Ohio.

Sedalia's first opponent in the Ottumwa tournament will be Gaylord, Mich. If the locals win their first game Thursday with Gaylord scheduled for 5:30 p.m., they will be matched against the winner of the Evergreen, Ill.-Elyria, Ohio game. The second round playoff game for the winners bracket is set for 2 p.m. Saturday.

The 5:30 p.m. game Thursday will be broadcast live from Ottumwa on KDRO radio, 1490 on your dial. If the All-Stars win, the game Saturday will also be carried by the Sedalia station.

Certainly the strong point of the Sedalia team is their pitching.

Brian Kennon, one of the two All-Star pitchers that has seen tournament action, started the locals off on the right track when he hurled a no-hitter in the first tourney game in the Concordia playoffs. The 8-0 no-hit victory was over the Big Six tournament entry.

Tony Lock pitched the stars to a 7-0 win over Clinton in the semi-final game of the Concordia tournament.

Brian Kennon came back in the championship tilt at Concordia to post a 4-0 win over the other Sedalia entry in the playoffs, the National League All-Stars.

The next step for the champs was the bi-state playoffs at Joplin.

Sedalia's first opponent in the Joplin tourney was DeSoto, Mo. The locals took a 1-0 win on the strength of winning hurler Tony Lock's solo home run.

The second and deciding game of the Missouri-Oklahoma contest featured the Sedalia All-Stars and Bartlesville, Okla.

Brian Kennon once again pitched a brilliant game, while supplying the locals with a home run. The final score found Sedalia on top by the score of 7-0.

The next stop on the tournament campaign in the quest for the Williamsport, Pa., berth was Omaha, Neb., last weekend. The All-Stars pitching still had not given up a run to their opposition until the opening game of the Omaha tourney.

Pitching again was the Sedalia strong point as Tony Lock turned in another no-hit game for Sedalia.

Brian Kennon opened the All-Stars second inning with a home run; Sedalia held on to the lead until an unearned run crossed the plate for Des Moines in the opening game of play in Omaha. Rick McRoy provided the winning run on the strength of another home run in the top of the seventh inning.

Following their 2-1 win over Des Moines, not even a telegram from Bart Starr, the famous Green Bay Packers quarterback could stop Sedalia from downing the Wisconsin entry in the Omaha, Neb., tournament.

Kennon drew the starting assignment against Green Bay and with the aid of a two-run homer by Joe Berlec and extra-base hits by Randy Masters and Marvin Spruell, he coasted to a 4-1 win.

Ottumwa, Iowa, is the scene of the next stop for the All-Stars. Four teams there will vie for a spot starting Thursday in the Williamsport, Pa., Little League World Series.

The tourney is single-elimination, but losers of both first-round games will play each other for consolation honors.

Gaylord, Mich., won the right to travel to Ottumwa, Iowa, by winning the Michigan-Indiana-Ohio playoffs last weekend held in Auburn, Ind.

Previous game wins by Gaylord include a 6-2 victory over Petoskey, Mich.; a 13-6 drubbing of Tri-Lakes, Mich.; a 4-2 win over Alpena, Mich.; and a 4-0 win over Bay City (Northeast) by the count of 3-2.

In the Michigan state finals, Gaylord trimmed Grosse Pointe Woods in the semi-final game, 1-0; then countered by taking the Michigan championship flag in a 4-0 downing of Walled Lake.

The Michigan entry almost lost out in their bid for the Tri-State title at Auburn, Ind. They found themselves down by the score of 3-1 with two out and the count two strikes on the batter in the last inning of play.

A wild pitch, error and a couple of base hits put Gaylord ahead to stay, 4-3, over Hammond, Ind. (Hammond is a city of 110,000 compared to the 2,500 population figure listed for Gaylord.)

The Gaylord, Mich., lineup will find either David Johnson or Rex Cluthe on the mound. The infield will probably be comprised of Ken Ames, Jim Goff, Jerry Amthar and Steve Heacock. In the probable starting outfield will be either Johnson or Cluthe, Buz Bauers and Dave Zarembo. Thus far in tourney play Charlie Lovelace has done the catching for Gaylord.

In all probability for Sedalia Tony Lock will draw the starting role for mound duties for Sedalia. Although the rest of the starting lineup has not been named, these boys have named at starting roles during previous tourney games: Marvin Spruell at shortstop; Jim Williams or Marty Thomas in left field; John Drenon at second; Kennon at first; Gerlec at third; McRoy in center field; Larry Kriesler behind the plate; and Randy Masters in right.

The All-Stars left Sedalia this morning at 10 a.m. for Ottumwa.

Dr. Russell Drenon, manager of this year's American League All-Stars, stated that the team had enough money for the trip to Iowa, but if they win there and go on to Williamsport they will need still more donations.

Anyone interested in sending checks or money orders may do so by sending them to P. O. Box 390, Sedalia, Mo., 65301.

Drenon and the coaching staff of the All-Stars wish to thank all the people that have been so helpful by donating money in order that the team can participate. They only hope that they can win in Ottumwa and be able to represent Sedalia and the Midwest well in the Little League World Series.

The Sedalia Little League American division All-Stars left Sedalia Wednesday morning by bus to Ottumwa, Iowa where they will meet Gaylord, Mich. in the first game of the northern regional playoffs of the Little League

World Series, Thursday. The winner of the Ottumwa tournament will represent the northern United States in Williamsport, Pa. in the series play. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Ramo Stott Cops Prize In Capital Feature Race

JEFFERSON CITY — Ramo Stott blazed to victory at Capital Speedway's special late model Stock show Thursday night.

Stott was never headed after taking the lead on lap three of the 35-lap feature. Taking the checker, he had lapped all but the second and third place cars.

Second went to Lewis, Shawnee, Kan., with Johnny Snow, Lebanon, winning third spot.

The highlight of the evening was an Australian pursuit race which ended up with Stott and Tom Frasher side by side headed for the checkered flag. Frasher's 68 Camaro and Stott's 65 Plymouth skidded into a spinout on the front straight and when the dust cleared, Stott edged Frasher across the finish line.

Top Time — Stott 27.38
Heat 1 Snow; Ralph Bowlin, Marshall; Daryl Dorenkamp, Columbia
Heat 2 Hal Conn, Fulton; Frasher; Frank Spencer, Kansas City.

Consolation — Stott; David Sapp, Ashland; Leonard Dale, Moberly.
Feature — Stott; Taylor; Snow; Spencer; Conn.

Capital Speedway's super-modified main event, Saturday night went to Marvin Gibson, Sedalia. Never headed, Gibson drove the Sparks Electric Special to victory followed by Bill Utz, Sedalia, and Flea Atkins, Holts Summit.

George Lasoskie, Dover, copped the semi-final by edging out Dale Roberts, Kansas City, and Stan Borofsky, Kansas City.

Johnny Snow, Lebanon, cleaned house in the late model stock division by taking the feature event, the trophy dash, and top time of 24.63.

Leonard Dale, Moberly, took some spectacular flips on the white flag lap of the stock main, coming to rest on his wheels and crawled out uninjured.

The Jets, coached by Mrs. Dorothy Dawson and her

Hunt is First In Feature At Clarksburg

CLARKSBURG — Jack Hunt, a newcomer to the winners circle, made his way through an action feature at Woody's Speedway in Clarksburg, Sunday night.

Ruth Hohman won the powder puff derby race, followed by Margie Wendling and Sandy Blank.

The two hard luck boys, Leroy Gish and Bill Rowles have been out of action for several weeks, making repairs. They came out Sunday night and it's back to the work shop again.

Final Results
Fast time went to Jack Hunt in 14.30.

The trophy dash event was won by Hohman.

The first heat winner was Frasier; second place went to Brown; Blank and Godsey took third and fourth respectively.

The second heat was won by L. Comstock; Sterling, Thurman and D. Brown placed second, third and fourth.

In the third heat, R. Comstock drove to the first place honors; Hohman, McCown and Ackers rounded out the first four.

First place in the feature went to Hunt; Hohman and R. Comstock finished second and third. Thurman, Sterling, Ackers, Frazier and Godsey finished in the next five positions.

Races are held every Sunday night at Woody's Speedway in Clarksburg. A special Ken Taylor Memorial Race is scheduled for Aug. 24.

Captain Killed

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — John Crikelair, 23-year-old co-captain of the Notre Dame 1968 football team, has been killed in Vietnam, the Defense Department announced Tuesday. He was a native of Ridgewood, N.J. husband, Clifford, were never behind throughout the seven inning game.

Starting with two runs in the first and second innings, they scored six in the third, seven in the fourth, and three in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings.

The all-stars were not to be left out, however, as they played a very competitive game, considering that the team was made up of different players from the Knob Noster area who had not played together as a team yet this year.

Members of the Jets were Becky Alexander, Debbie Mackestey, Terry Cawson, May Newton, Lois Fischer, Janice Cornine, Roseann Smith, Beverly Smiley, Lori Minkler, Donna Boughton and Julie Powell.

Playing on the all-star team were Linda Walz, Mandi Myer, Kathy Galloway, Marshal Benton, Micki Bollenback, Maureen O'Halleron, Linda Valdez, Glenda Johnson, Rhonda Duffer, Alyce Bearce, Becky Sumner, Carol Dithy, Debbie Gibson and Kim Edwards.

The all-stars were coached by Mr. and Mrs. Danny Ulivari.

Big Pay, But No Helmet

By TOM SALADINO

The Buffalo Bills shelled out a reported $350,000 to nail O. J. Simpson's signature to an American Football League contract but forgot one minor detail—a helmet.

Even before the heralded Heisman Trophy winning half-back from Southern California trotted out to make his pro debut in a scrimmage Tuesday at the Bills' training camp in Niagara Falls, N.Y., it was revealed that Buffalo didn't have a helmet which would fit the elongated face of Simpson.

So until a specially-made helmet is airlifted in from California, the highest paid rookie since the merger of the AFL-National League in 1966, who

Thompson vs. Don Biggers At K.C.I.R.

KANSAS CITY — Mickey Thompson and his Mach 1 Mustang, the car that has won every major event in the country and holds the K.C.I.R. low ET (7.37 seconds) will be at Kansas City International Raceway Saturday to defend his record against Don (Mr. Plymouth) Biggers. Biggers currently holds a top speed record of 200.44 miles per hour in his Barracuda.

Both Thompson and Biggers will be putting their titles on the line in a "winner-take-all" match. Excitement, thrills and chills is the name of the game when these two fire-breathing nitro-burners eat up the quarter-mile drag strip in low seven-second runs.

Also featured on Saturday will be eliminator bracket trophy runs in all classes of street, top stock and mr. stock cars.

Kansas City International Raceway is located five miles south of I-70 and Noland at 8201 Noland Road in Kansas City, Mo. Gates open at 4:30 p.m. and races start at 7:30 p.m.

Expansion Teams Account for Rise

NEW YORK (AP) — Big league baseball is on the ball this season as far as attendance is concerned with the turnstiles clicking much more frequently than last year for the Chicago Cubs, Atlanta Braves and Washington Senators.

However, most of the 15 per cent increase registered in the majors to date can be attributed to the expansion of both circuits from 10 to 12 teams.

An Associated Press survey revealed today that the over-all attendance for the 24 teams is 19,413,241 compared with 16,901,345 for the 20 teams in 1968. This is a gain of 2,511,896.

The expansion teams, though, Montreal and San Diego in the National League and Kansas City and Seattle in the American League, have combined to attract 2,430,368 to their home games. Thus, the over-all increase for the 20 teams which operated in the majors in 1968 is only 81,528, or four per cent.

The Expos are leading the new clubs with a home attendance figure of 802,057. Kansas City is next with 653,137 followed by Seattle, 500,957, and San Diego, 474,217.

The Cubs, pacing the NL's East Division standings, show the largest attendance hike in either league. They are 408,758 ahead of last year. Atlanta is up 221,053 and Washington 203,543 over 1968.

Nine other clubs show increases. They are Cincinnati, 148,989; Baltimore, 93,135; the New York Yankees, 90,754; Houston, 69,479; Boston, 50,703; Minnesota, 43,513; the New York Mets, 31,203; the Los Angeles Dodgers, 22,699; and Pittsburgh, 5,495.

The St. Louis Cards and Detroit Tigers, defending league titleholders, are slumping the most at the gate. The Tigers are 287,880 paid spectators behind last year and the Cards 259,613.

The figures include Sunday's games.

Other teams below their home attendance aggregates are Cleveland, 199,591; California, 187,317; the Chicago White Sox, 146,096; Philadelphia, 143,044; San Francisco, 51,357; and Oakland, 32,898.

The Mets, who top both leagues in attendance, are outdrawing the Yankees in New York, 1,363,286 to 850,394. The Cubs are way ahead of the White Sox in Chicago with 1,156,655 to the Sox 431,115 and the A's lead the Giants in the Bay Area, 561,839 to 547,726.

In addition to the Mets and Cubs, six other teams have passed the million mark. They are Boston, which leads the American League with 1,329,246; the Dodgers, 1,232,209; Detroit, 1,192,941; St. Louis, 1,191,172; Houston, 1,073,292 and Atlanta, 1,018,145.

Wrestling Results

Opening — K. O. Cox and Ronnie Etchison wrestled to a 15-minute draw.

Special event — Cowboy Lang defeated Mighty Atom with an airplane spin and press.

Semi-final — The team of Cowboy Lang and Sheila Johnson won over Mighty Atom and Cherri LaMour in a best-of-three falls match.

Main event — In the Indian death match between Danny Little Bear and K. O. Cox, Little Bear won the event by the use of a double leg lock.

The next wrestling show at Convention Hall in Liberty Park will be held on Sept. 9.

National League Roundup

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The rain that fell on Phil Niekro and the Braves in Atlanta Tuesday night was nothing compared to the unexpected storm the Cincinnati Reds encountered in Montreal.

And when the skies had cleared and the dust had settled, the crowded race in the National League West was as muddy as ever.

By sweeping a two-nighter from Cincinnati 8-3 and 5-2, the lowly Expos slayed the Reds' lead in the NL West to two games over Atlanta, 2½ over Los Angeles and San Francisco and three over Houston.

Meanwhile, for the second time in two weeks, the Braves and Niekro were rained out a big lead—this time 5-0—in the fourth inning of a game with Philadelphia.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles shocked St. Louis 5-2, San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 6-3, Houston shaded New York 8-7 and the Chicago Cubs blanked San Diego 4-0, stretching their lead in the NL East to 8½ games over the Mets and Cardinals.

The Reds, who outlasted a 2½-hour tornado to beat Philadelphia Saturday night, invaded Montreal with a five-game winning streak while the Expos had lost six in a row. But the Expos, led by Coco Laboy, started their thunder in the first inning of the opener and never let up.

NBC Tourney Has Three Games on Tap

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Two more first round games and one second round affair are on tap tonight in the National Baseball Congress tournament.

Defending champion Liberal, Kan., will meet Staunton, Ind., in the second round contest while Jackson, Miss., plays North Carolina and Boulder, Colo., vs. Newport News, Va.

Garyville, La., whipped the Nassau Bahamas Islanders 7-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Kenny Roussell and the hitting of C. J. Watkins who hit two homers and drove in four runs.

Lawton, Okla., scored single runs in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth innings to overhaul Trenton, N. J., 4-3. It was the second straight victory for Lawton, upset winner over second-seeded Anchorage, Alaska, in the first round.

Adamstown, Pa., was outlited, 9-10-7, but sandwiched most of them into a four-run outburst in the third inning that carried the Pennsylvanians to a 6-2 victory.

The victory shoves Adamstown into a second round match with perennial NBC power, Fairbanks, Alaska, Thursday night.

The 32-team double elimination tournament opened last Friday night.

Double Celebration

CHICAGO (AP) — Ray Schalk, Chicago White Sox Hall of Fame catcher, made it a double celebration Tuesday night.

He was 77 years old and it was 57 years ago to the day that he played in his first game with the White Sox.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

7-Putting

There is no basic putting style that guarantees success for everyone. I have my method and it works for me. You have yours and maybe it works for you.

Copying putting style is certainly no way to improve your score, but there are some basic elements that can be learned by watching fellows like Billy Casper and George Archer—two of the best in the game.

Casper puts tremendous emphasis on taking the putter blade back along as straight a path as possible and keeping it square to the ball through the stroke.

Billy says the biggest problem in putting is keeping the putter from opening or closing by the time it returns to the ball and keeping it in the same path in the backstroke and the downstroke. In the backstroke, he slightly hoods the club by taking it back with its heel. Using this little move helps him stay along the same path. At impact the clubhead stops abruptly, producing a bumping action that is peculiar to the Casper stroke. The theory is that bumping or tapping puts a definitely solid, square hit on the ball.

Archer says getting comfortable is the most important thing in putting. The idea of a man 6-foot-6 crouching over a three-foot putt Laboy drove in five runs, three in the first game, and pitcher Steve Renko, who won the opener with a seven-hitter, Rusty Staub and Adolfo Phillips belted solo homers, while the homer-happy Reds settled for two-run shots by Alex Johnson in the opener and Johnny Bench in the nightcap.

Laboy singled in two runs in the very first inning of the evening and added another with a grounder in the third as the Expos grabbed a 6-0 lead. He had a run-scoring single in the first inning of the nightcap and doubled home the final run in the seventh.

Renko went the route in the first game and Bill Stoneman worked into the eighth of the finale, when the Reds loaded the bases. Elroy Face got Pete Rose on a grounder for the final out of the inning and retired the side in order in the ninth.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Expos wasn't about to feel sorry for the Reds.

"The only thing I care about is how well we play," he said. "I don't really care who it's against, as long as we play well. Hell, their (Cincinnati's) whole line-up is tough to stop. Against that club, you want to get all the runs you can."

Niekro, seeking to become the NL's first 17-game winner, was breezing along when the rains came in Atlanta. It was exactly two weeks to the night after Niekro had an 8-0 lead washed out in Philadelphia.

Another loser was Henry Aaron, whose 30th home run went down the drain.

Manny Mota tied the score with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the eighth inning and Jim LeFebvre followed with a three-run homer as the Dodgers turned back St. Louis and prevented the Cards from moving past the Mets into second place in the East. The four-run uprising came against reliever Joe Hoerner.

Bill Sudakis homered for the Dodgers in the sixth as they started their comeback from a 2-0 deficit.

Jim Davenport drove in three runs with two singles and a double as the Giants tripped the Pirates and Gaylord Perry, 15-8, struggled to a 10-hit triumph and survived homers by Willie Stargell and Jose Pagan.

The Astros continued to plague the Mets, whipping them for the eighth straight time. Curt Blefary put Houston ahead 6-5 in the sixth with a three-run homer and prevented the tying run from scoring in the eighth with a fine defensive play.

Ed Kranepool's three-run homer and Tommie Agee's two-run single staked the Mets and Jerry Kosman to a 5-1 lead in the fourth. After the Astros took an 8-5 lead, Agee singled two more runs across in the eighth before first baseman Belfary leaped high to snag Ken Boswell's hopper to end the rally.

Ferguson Jenkins, 15-10, hurled the Cubs past the Padres with a six-hitter. He struck out 10 and preserved his shutout after Nate Colbert opened the ninth with a triple by fanning Al Ferrara and Ivan Murrell and getting Chris Cannizzaro on a tap to third.

The Cubs took a 2-0 lead in the third on singles by Don Kessinger, Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams and Ron Santo's double play grounder. Ernie Banks doubled and Randy Hundley singled for another run in the eighth and Jim Hickman walked his 10th homer in the ninth.

American League Roundup

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a bad day for Oakland, despite Reggie Jackson's 42nd home run, and it was a dismal day for Minnesota, despite peace in the clubhouse, but it was a great day for the Irish.

What else could you call it when Rory Erin Kilkenny is born and father Mike celebrates by pitching Detroit past California 7-2 with a three-hitter?

And if that wasn't enough, Rory Erin is the first child of the Kilkennys and father Mike marked that first with his first complete game, first hit and first run batted in in the major leagues.

While the elder Kilkenny must have been doing an Irish jig, Oakland and Minnesota had little to swing about.

The A's wasted Jackson's tying two-run homer in the ninth inning when Baltimore scored in the bottom of the ninth for a 4-3 victory, and the New York Yankees hit the Twins harder than the Twins hit themselves in a 10-3 rout.

In other games, the Chicago White Sox blasted erring Boston 10-5, Cleveland edged Seattle 6-5 and Kansas City beat Washington 6-3.

Kilkenny, 2-2, had things much easier against the Angels than he did earlier in the day when he rushed his wife 15 miles to the hospital and beat the stork by nine minutes at 12:59 p.m. After his five-pound son appeared—six weeks premature—he went home, sent his wife some roses, let the dog out and went to the ballpark to celebrate.

Making his fourth start of the season after specializing in the minor leagues as a reliever, the 24-year-old stringbean left-hander did lose his first major league shutout when Bubba Morton homered in the fifth inning.

Tables Turn; Cards Bow, Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City's Moe Drabowsky was effective in relief Tuesday night as the Royals defeated the Washington Senators 6-3 but St. Louis' Joe Hoerner wasn't as the Cardinals bowed to the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2.

In Washington, Drabowsky pitched 2½ innings of hitless ball in saving the game for Royal starter Wally Bunker, 7-9. It was Drabowsky's 11th save this year.

The Senators took a 2-0 lead in the first when Lee Maye slammed his fifth homer and Frank Howard scored on Bernie Allen's single.

Ed Kirkpatrick started a three-run Royal rally in the second when he singled, went to second on an error and scored on a single by Ellie Rodriguez.

Rodriguez scored on a bunt by Bunker and Jerry Adair crossed the plate on another bunt by Jackie Hernandez.

Kansas City scored another run in the third on consecutive singles by Kirkpatrick, Adair and Rodriguez after two were out.

Washington scored its last run in the fourth when Allen doubled and pinch hitter Ed Stroud singled. Kirkpatrick's sixth home run of the season in the fifth gave the Royals a 5-3 lead.

Kansas City's Mike Fiore ended the scoring in the seventh when he doubled and came in on Adair's single.

In Los Angeles, Jim Lefebvre belted a three-run homer off Hoerner in the eighth to break a 2-2 tie and give the Dodgers the victory.

Trailing 2-1 going into the eighth LA tied it when Willie Crawford scored on a sacrifice fly by Manny Mota with the bases loaded. Lefebvre then followed with his homer.

The Dodgers scored again on Bill Sudaki's homer in the sixth. The Cards took a 1-0 lead in the second when Mike Shannon singled and scored on a ground out. The Redbird scored again in the third when Curt Flood singled and crossed home plate on a single by Joe Torre.

Dodger starter Bill Singer went the distance in picking up his 15th victory against seven defeats. Hoerner's record is now 1-2.

Tonight Kansas City will pitch Dick Drago, 5-10, against Jim Miles, 0-0, for Washington and St. Louis will send Chuck Taylor, 4-1, against Alan Foster, 3-6, of the Dodgers.

Chiefs Look Good In Pre-season Play

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs won their first football game in 1968 than they ever had before, yet the rewards of victory eluded them. They couldn't even lay claim to a divisional championship.

The Chiefs, American Football League champions in 1962 and 1966, tied Oakland for the Western Division title with a 12-2 record, then lost to the Raiders 41-6 in a playoff game.

It is the bitter memory of that defeat which the Chiefs hope to erase in 1969.

"We'll definitely be improved, but it will be a real challenge to duplicate our record of 1968," says Coach Hank Stram, who has guided the Chiefs since they began operations in 1960 as the Dallas Texans and who was named AFL Coach of the Year by The Associated Press last year.

"Ours is a veteran team which should improve because of the normal development of our younger players, and because we hope to avoid the injuries which hampered us in 1968," Stram adds.

Injuries to receivers Otis Taylor and Frank Pits and fullback Curtis McClintock forced Stram to do a lot of patchwork a year ago. In one game with Oakland, Stram reverted to the straight-T. The Chiefs attempted only three passes and beat the Raiders 24-10.

Taylor still is troubled by leg problems and Stram admits. "We don't know for sure how quickly it will heal," Gloster Richardson likely will start the season as flanker in place of Taylor.

Pitts has recovered and will be at split end.

McClintock lost his fullback job to 1968 rookie standout Robert

Holmes and has been shifted to tight end. He is battling veteran Reg Carolan there, and Carolan appears to be winning the job held for years by Fred Arbanas.

Arbanas has been shifted to offensive tackle and is running behind regular right tackle Dave Hill. "There is every indication that Freddie will do an outstanding job as offensive tackle," Stram said. "He is improving steadily and making the adjustment well."

Main losses are offensive lineman Curt Merz, who retired, and defensive tackle Ernie Ladd, who underwent knee surgery and will sit out this season because the knee did not respond to treatment.

Merz' retirement will become important, Stram said, "only if there are injuries to key offensive linemen; then we'll miss his experience." Ladd's loss is not considered so vital, largely because the Chiefs are so high on Curley Culp, second-year man from Arizona State.

"He's making great progress and should fortify defensive tackle extremely well," Stram said of Culp, a 265-pounder.

Len Dawson will again direct the Chiefs' offense with backup help from Jack Lee. Dawson, considered by the Chiefs to be pro football's most underrated quarterback, now is 34 but led the AFL in passing last year for the fourth time.

Mike Garrett, Wendell Hayes and Holmes will shoulder most of the running load. Holmes was No. 2 in the AFL last year with 866 yards rushing.

Kansas City's top rookie prospects are defensive back Jim Marsalis of Tennessee State, running back Ed Podolak of Iowa and linebacker Bob Stein of Minnesota. None is expected to crack the starting lineup early in the season, however.

"We will be better, but so will a lot of other teams," Stram concludes. "Oakland will definitely be the team to beat in the American Football League."

1968 finish—Tied Oakland for AFL Western Division championship but lost playoff, 41-6. 1968 record—12-2.

Probable 1969 finish—Should again battle Oakland for title.

Team's strong points—Good balance between offense and defense, strong running attack complementing Len Dawson's passing skill.

Team's weaknesses—Needs stronger pass rush from defensive line; passing attack vulnerable to injury.

Pompidous Usher In Gayer Life in the the Elysee

PARIS — (NEA) — For the next seven years, Madame Claude Pompidou, France's First Lady, must be prepared to have 50 million pairs of eyes focused on her.

She and her husband symbolize the new era, the transition from the austere, heroic, almost legendary Gaullism of their illustrious predecessor to a more liberal, accessible human form.

Claude Pompidou had to some extent managed to escape the public eye during the years her husband served as prime minister. Now the die is cast and it will be difficult for her to avoid the protocol shadowing her movements.

It is more than probable that the Elysee (France's White House) — as impersonal, conventional and official as the Louvre — will acquire a spirit of informality with the advent of the first "swinging" Madame la Presidente. For years the towering figure of General de Gaulle not only blurred the outlines of his ministers but put his unassuming wife Yvonne far in the background.

Anyway, she was very removed emotionally from the world of miniskirts and swinging society. Not for Madame de Gaulle the gaiety of first nights and bright parties, but instead the formal ritual performances at the Opera with visiting royalty and the rigorous protocol of lunches and banquets at the Elysee.

While the Pompidous have never gone in for the wildest form of Paris night life, they still like to indulge in a night out on the town. But they both have survived unscathed from a whispering campaign which linked them in the social circle of movie idol Alain Delon when his bodyguard, Stefan Markovic, was murdered.

Claude Pompidou will most certainly bring to their official residence a relaxed atmosphere. But being a Frenchwoman to the core, she will know instinctively just what the French people expect of a modern First Lady — a certain measure of discretion and not too far out, fashion-wise.

Claude Pompidou and her sister, daughters of a small town doctor, lost their mother when they were both in the nursery. Born in the province of Anjou, known for its blue skies, soft-spoken people, good cooking and wine, the two girls were brought up by a housekeeper who taught them the almost forgotten housewifely arts, especially cooking and sewing.

"Plain cooking, succulent dishes like mutton stew, that is what we as a family appreciate," Claude declared one day. The Pompidous' country house, an hour's ride out of Paris, is the meeting place of the clan.

"Weekends we are often 15 at the table," she remarked, "all family."

Claude Pompidou also happens to be the first Madame la Presidente to be fashion-conscious. A few months ago she attended an official gala at the state Opera in a Chanel Bermuda evening suit. She loves trouser suits and all the fashionable gadgets, figure-hugging swimsuits and short skirts. Tall and slender, with a shock of curly blond hair, she looks particularly good in tailored clothes. Her favorite design houses are Yves Saint Laurent, Cardin, Dior, Laroche. But she is also a faithful Chanel client.

"A lot had been said about my 'above-the-knees' hems, my Bermuda ensembles. After all, I dress like a woman of my times. I do know that from now on I must consider my new activities and responsibilities. I may adore independence, but I am quite capable of respecting certain obligations," she confided.

She and her husband are interested in new ideas, new people, especially artists.

writers and poets. There is nothing of the social snob in either. They are completely unimpressed by titles or position. Madame Pompidou frankly admits she knows nothing about politics.

The Pompidous shortly expect to be grandparents. Their son Paul, 27, who is completing his medical studies, married last year just before the mini-revolution.

The Pompidous come from middle-class stock and do not attempt to conceal it. Claude Pompidou is inclined to be somewhat outspoken but is usually very gay and has a ready laugh.

"I adore knowing everything about people, but the social set bores me very quickly and I am only really happy with our real friends, those who stood by my husband during the difficult days of May, 1968," she declared recently.

Reading is her favorite pastime but she also devotes much time to a medical research outfit and an organization that cares for handicapped children.

Friends and acquaintances who until recently called him Georges and thee-d and thou-d him are wondering how they should address the president of the Republic? Who will be admitted to the inner circle? New fads and snobisms eventually will stem from the Elysee.

Will the new president remain faithful to the old Georges Pompidou? And who among her woman friends will feel free to call on Madame la Presidente at the Elysee?

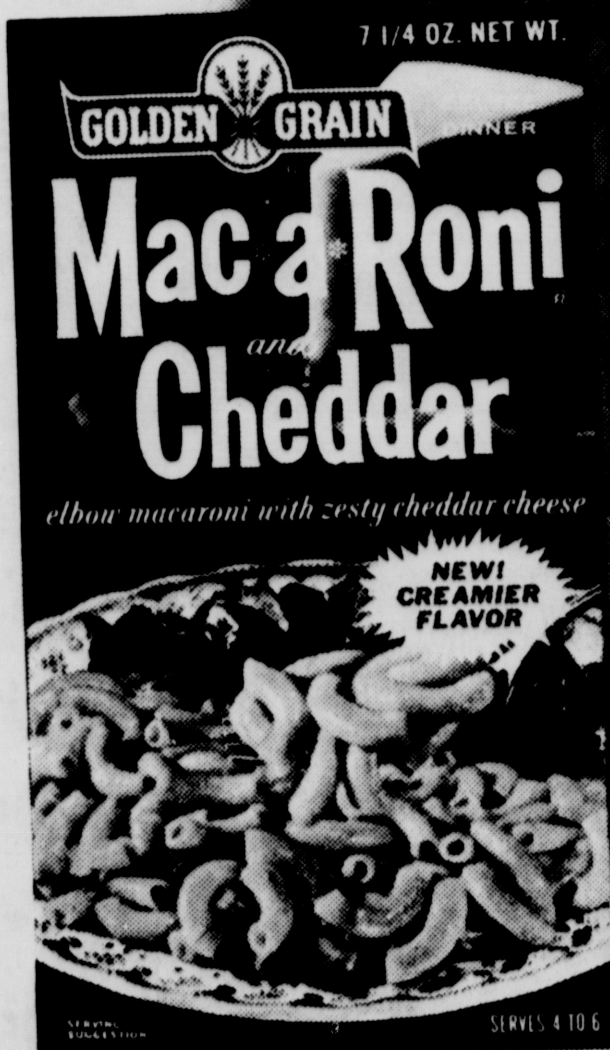

Time to Be in Bed

JORDAN, N.Y. (AP) — A new ordinance in this village of 1,300 west of Syracuse prohibits persons under 18 from being on the streets between 10:30 p.m. and 5:30 a.m. unless accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Mayor Francis Foote said the law was adopted "to stop 12- and 13-year-old kids from wandering around at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning." He said the Village Board had received reports of sporadic vandalism by youngsters.

Is 'Luck' Enough?

Approach to Retiring Can be Apprehensive

By JOE WING

NEW YORK (AP) — Approaching retirement must be something like approaching a mail order bride. You hope she lives up to her advance billing, but you have mental reservations.

As soon as I announced that I would retire this summer, friends and acquaintances told me: "You lucky dog. No more commuting, or office hours, or back breaking projects. You can just loaf and enjoy yourself."

I guess so. That's what I have had in mind for quite a while.

But I notice that my most enthusiastic well wishers are middle aged men caught up in the tensions of their drives for success or for providing family funds. The ones nearing my age just say, "Good luck."

Retirement is going to be as much a change in life. I doubt not, as is marriage itself. After 50 years on the treadmill, what does an old boss like me do when turned out to pasture?

I've been putting that question recently to a lot of oldtimers who have managed to survive retirement traumas.

One in particular was so discouraged at the outset that he was talking about trying to enter an old folks' home. Since then he has gotten into local politics and volunteer work and can't find time to do all the things he wants to do.

That seems to be a common refrain—"There never are enough hours in the day."

Some add there never is enough money. After all, neither your boss nor Uncle Sam ever contracted to support you in the style to which you have become accustomed.

But I used to live on hardly more than pennies, and in a pinch can do so again. And I get to thinking of all the places I've dreamed of and never visited ... all the books I've meant to read and never read ... the stories I've never written, the gardens I have left unmade, the friends I've never really talked to, the strange foods uneaten, the strange seas unsailed.

As a starter I've acquired a car with a trailer hitch. Now all I need to find out what it's all about, this lure of the open road, is a second hand trailer.

Surely some of the projects in such an assortment will work into the pattern of this marriage-to-be. And perhaps I won't do too badly as a mail order husband.

Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Street and family recently entertained with a contributive dinner at their home near Clifton City in honor of Mrs. Street's mother, Mrs. Phillip Day. The occasion celebrated Mrs. Day's birthday.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Day, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rachner, Kathy Jo and Larry, Raytown; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Day, Larry and Teresa; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wirths, Dianne, Darrell and Michael; Miss Marlene Wirths; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Day, Christy, Steve, Jeffrey and Laurie Ann; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Day, Regina, Ronnie, Rhonda and Robert; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Day, Keith and Kyla, all of Pilot Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Street; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter, Sedalia.

The main attractions in this stretch: the ornate Grauman's Egyptian Theater and the Wax Museum operated by an enterprising East Indian named Spoony Singh. Book stores thrive.

The few blocks between Highland Avenue and LaBrea are the only ones with an air of prosperity. New high-rise office buildings and apartments are beginning to appear. Nearby is the Boulevard's only authentic tourist attraction—Grauman's Chinese Theater, where foot prints and bright sayings of Hollywood's greats are enshrined in a paved courtyard ("Love to All-Shirley Temple").

Oh, yes, there is something else for the tourists to see. Imbedded in the charcoal terrazzo sidewalks along the Boulevard are bronze stars containing the names of 1,539 figures in the movie, radio, television and recording industries, from Bud Abbott to Adolph Zukor.

And so on these hot August days you see bewildered tourists, dressed in shorts and loud shirts and equipped with cameras and small fry, plodding down the Boulevard with downward eyes.

When they gaze around, they see hippies trying to earn pot money by selling the Los Angeles Free Press; tight-panted boys with makeup and bleached hair; Zulu-haired gurus in outfits that stagger belief.

These nouveau characters have replaced the authentic Hollywood types who long frequented the Boulevard—Peter the Hermit, Billy the Midget and others. And they have caused alarm among Hollywood's merchants, who campaigned for more police protection. Three weeks ago, the Los Angeles Police Department instituted a walking patrol of the Boulevard.

Case Reopened

For 24 years the U. S. Army has listed Pvt. Vincent Torres, right, AWOL from his World War II unit in the Philippine Islands. After prodding, the Army has informed Mrs. Brigida Ochoa, left, Harlingen, Tex., it is reopening the case of her son's mysterious disappearance.

Mrs. Ochoa and her daughter, Isabelle, look over one of the last letters received from Vincent before he disappeared on Luzon, following a party with friends celebrating the defeat of Germany. He walked out of a cantina and has not been heard of since. (UPI)

People In The News

WILLMAR, Minn. (AP) — Peter Yarrow of the Peter, Paul and Mary singing group and Mary E. McCarthy, niece of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., obtained a marriage license Tuesday. It was understood they would wed in September.

Yarrow, 30, and his fiancée, 22, met when she was campaigning to obtain the Democratic presidential nomination for her uncle last year. Miss McCarthy recently had been working as a receptionist in New York.

PRAGUE (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham canceled a series of speaking engagements in the Czechoslovak capital because of a shakeup in the state office for religious affairs. Church sources say.

In the shakeup, Karel Hruza was reappointed head of the office, which he had previously headed during the Stalinist regime of President Antonin Novotny. He succeeded Erika Kadlecov, who has gone back to her former job as an official of the Academy of Sciences.

Graham was to have appeared in Prague Monday and Tuesday. Nearly 1,000 persons were disappointed when he failed to show up as scheduled at the St. Salvator Baptist Church Monday.

MOSCOW (AP) — Unofficial Soviet sources say government secret police have searched the home of writer Anatoly Kuznetsov, who detected to the West in London July 30, and seized manuscripts and other papers.

The sources said the search was made at Kuznetsov's apartment in Tula, about 100 miles south of Moscow.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singers Roy Orbison and Johnny Cash, who both lost family members in fires during the past year, hope to help Vanderbilt University Hospital establish a $2 million burn research and treatment center.

Two young sons of Orbison died in a fire which destroyed his home near here last September. A teen-aged nephew of Cash's wife June Carter, was fatally burned in an automobile accident here in March.

A spokesman for the two singers said Tuesday they hoped to provide an endowment for the research and treatment center and then raise additional funds to help with the financing.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Band leader Xavier Cugat, hospitalized July 29 with a stroke, says he expects to return to the stage next month.

His wife, Charo, said Tuesday the 69-year-old musician would leave the hospital within a few days.

LONDON (AP) — A poll by the rock magazine "Disc" shows that 54 per cent of young Britons answering the questionnaire believe the Beatles are still the top pop group and that their best is yet to come.

According to the poll, John Lennon has displaced Paul McCartney as the most popular member of the group.

Some scientists feel that ozone may be the key to evolution on Mars. The presence of this oxygen variant above craters or lowlands probably would indicate the existence of oxygen molecules that might support life.

AP Corrects Statement In LA Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Associated Press reported incorrectly Saturday that a 19-year-old caretaker, arrested in the killing of actress Sharon Tate and four other persons, had been charged with murder.

The caretaker, William E. Garretson of Lancaster, Ohio, had been booked for investigation in connection with the case. He was released Monday. Police Inspector Harold Yarnell said, "There is no sufficient evidence to hold Garretson. There is no reason to suspect him."

Garretson's attorney said Garretson did not know the murders had taken place until police entered his room and told him. Garretson lived at a guest house near the Bel-Air mansion where the killings occurred.

At the time of the arrest, officers noted that Garretson was the only person alive at a place where five persons were found dead.

Garretson's booking was on a standard form that lists under the word "Charge" a blank in which is cited the section of the penal code involved. In Garretson's case, it was the murder section.

This "Charge" is not the same as a formal murder charge filed by a district attorney if circumstances warrant.

Drowns in Lake

MOUND CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kenneth Felund, 39, of Craig, Mo., drowned in Bear Lake near Mound City after the motorboat in which he was a passenger developed engine trouble and sank Tuesday.

What's Planned for Moonmen

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay urged private business and city agencies to arrange work schedules today to allow the greatest number of employees to see the Apollo 11 astronauts during their visit to the city.

"I believe this event will be one of the great moments in New York's history, an event in which hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers will want to share," Lindsay said in a statement at City Hall.

CHICAGO (AP) — City officials estimate more than 50 miles of ticker tape would tumble from office windows during the parade today honoring the men who landed on the moon.

Police officials said they expect the motorcade to have the largest turnout of spectators since Britain's Queen Elizabeth II came to Chicago in 1959. Estimates on the number of spectators then ranged up to 2 million.

More than one sixth of the city's police force, 1,600 men, was assigned to handle today's crowds.

NEW YORK (AP) — The three major television networks ABC, CBS and NBC, plan the following coverage of today's three-city tour by the Apollo 11 astronauts. All times are Eastern Daylight:

10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.—Arrival at Kennedy Airport in New York, ticker tape parade up Broadway, City Hall ceremonies, visit to the United Nations. 3:30 to 5 p.m.—Arrival at O'Hare Airport in Chicago, parade and ceremonies.

11:15 p.m. to conclusion—State dinner at Los Angeles.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay presents the Apollo 11 astronauts with the city's Medal of Honor at City Hall today.

City Council leaders present the moonmen with a Proud City Award. Mrs. Lindsay gives city medallions to the astronauts' wives and daughters and tie clasps and belt buckles with the city seal to their sons.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The gala dinner for the Apollo 11 astronauts tonight will be a memorable meal.

The menu includes poached salmon in champagne with prawns, oysters, truffles and crawfish butter; fillet of beef on a crouton and gooseliver pate and a truffle sauce; hearts of artichokes stuffed with green peas and diced tomatoes; carrots with butter sauce; limestone lettuce salad with oil and vinegar; cheeses; fresh fruits and a special desert creation called Clair de Lune, which is a French vanilla heart of soft marzipan, with Kirsch soaked raisins on a moonshaped meringue. Three California wines will be served.

Assistance to Thailand, Laos Creates a Contest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate fighting over military policy and spending has entered a three-week lull but not before a hot skirmish over a proposal to put strict limits on U.S. assistance to Laos and Thailand.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper who touched off the battle Tuesday, said opposition by Nixon administration backers and members of the Armed Services Committee might be explained by reports he has heard that U.S. troops are flying helicopters in support of Thai troops battling insurgents in northern Thailand.

"It would stop that," the Kentucky Republican said of his proposed amendment.

Cooper offered his proposal to the portion of the $20 billion military procurement authorization bill that deals with military assistance to South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand. His move came after the Senate voted unanimously to limit such aid to $2.5 billion—about its present level.

Cooper's amendment would restrict use of the aid to Laos and Thailand to material, equipment and related costs, ruling out its use to provide U.S. ground forces.

Without such a restriction, he told the Senate, "we could be committing our troops in the same way we became involved in Vietnam."

Cooper withdrew his amendment after more than an hour of debate but said he plans to offer it again after the three-week vacation which Congress starts today.

The U.S. commitment to Thailand, especially a secret agreement between the two countries, was the subject of interest all day, starting with a morning session of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, stormed out of the committee after the Pentagon refused to produce copies of the 1964 agreement.

"Rumor has it," Church told the Senate later, "that the plans not only contemplate the use of American troops, but an arrangement that would actually place them under Thai command."

But, according to Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., one Pentagon witness made it clear that "before anything were done (under the agreement), it should be taken up with the Congress."

Carpenter Mends Man's Broken Leg

More Than 6000 JOBS Available Soon

Yakima Valley in Washington State has a record crop of apples this year and will be needing a lot of pickers. Experienced workers can earn $125 to $225 a week for 7 to 8 weeks. Picking in volume will begin about September 15th and continue into early November. Most work is piece work, but there are also hourly jobs at well above the national average for agricultural work. Experience not required.

For work assignment on arrival in the Yakima Valley, it would be helpful to contact the Yakima or Toppenish Office of the Farm Labor Division of the Washington State Employment Security Department.

Nixon May Name Fortas Successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. is reported by Senate sources to be President Nixon's choice to fill the Supreme Court vacancy created by the resignation of Abe Fortas.

Sources say Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell researched the rulings of circuit court judges before recommending the elevation of Haynsworth from chief judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond, Va., to a seat on the nation's highest tribunal.

Fortas quit in mid-May amid a controversy over his ties to the family foundation of jailed financier Louis E. Wolfson.

Haynsworth, a Democrat who was born in South Carolina, declines to discuss the report of the pending nomination. He told a reporter who reached him Tuesday at his Greenville, S.C., home: "I can't answer anything that will cause you to guess." He added that if and when there is an announcement on Fortas' successor "it is up to the White House to make it."

A Senate source cautioned that a last-minute switch was always possible. Others most frequently mentioned include California Supreme Court Justice Louis H. Burke, former American Bar Association President Lewis F. Powell Jr. of Richmond, Va.; Judge Henry J. Friendly Jr. of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, New York, and Judge Charles D. Breitel of the New York State Court of Appeals.

Haynsworth, 56, a graduate of Furman University and Harvard Law School, was named to the circuit court in 1957 by then-President Dwight D. Eisenhower and has been chief judge since 1964. He is described as fitting the mold for the type of

Supreme Court justice Nixon wants.

The nomination, Nixon's second appointment to the Supreme Court, is expected to be submitted to the Senate on Thursday. The Senate Judiciary Committee plans a hearing Sept. 9, following the congressional recess.

Haynsworth has taken what most observers consider a middle-of-the-road course on the appeals court that has jurisdiction over North Carolina, South Carolina, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Healthful Waters Lured Many to Climax Springs

By Hazel Lang

CLIMAX SPRINGS — "This caps the climax," commented W. W. Hockman, as he and A. R. Jackson looked over a spot in Camden County with its tree covered hills and its many springs. That remark, along with the discovering of the numerous springs, inspired the name of Climax Springs.

It was in 1868 that the first settler, James C. Beard, came to the area, but the first small frame home in the village was not built until 1882. This home and the first store were built by John J. Wayne, who later became the first postmaster. In that year, too, a log hotel was built by Craven Thompson.

Form a Group

By 1883 a group of men, realizing the wonderful possibilities of the "healing" waters there, formed the Climax Springs Association and secured the large tract of land on which seven springs were located. Members of the association were: Alexander R. Jackson, Daniel T. McNeil, Milton C. Hockman, Daniel A. Coulter, James T. Hockman and W. W. Hockman.

The association then built the Climax Springs Hotel, a large white frame building which opened July 10, 1883.

Along the main street of the town was a drug store which was opened in 1884 by J. S. Cline, M.D. The year before Andrew Rosentine had opened a blacksmith shop. In 1885 a shop was opened by Hartman Schneider, shoemaker.

It was in 1883 that a village school was opened by subscriptions and taught by James T. Beard, who had 20 pupils. In July of that year the Rev. W. K. White preached his first sermon there under an arbor of trees. The town had one church, United Brethren, with the Rev. C. W. Crow as pastor.

Postmasters following Wayne during those first years of the town were J. S. Cline, B. F. Swindler, M. L. Steckel and S. E. Darnell.

Came to Springs

There was certainly no lack of advertising of the resort, and it evidently paid off, for people came from all over the country and even some from foreign lands to bathe in and drink the water of the springs. A pamphlet published in 1883 had the following to say:

"Climax Springs is most convenient and least expensive to reach from east, north and south of any spring in the Southwest being only 200 miles southwest of St. Louis and the Missouri Pacific Railway to Warsaw, our nearest railroad station 25 miles distant from the springs.

"The distance from the railroad to the Springs is accomplished in a four hour drive over and through the picturesque scenery of the Ozark Mountains by carriage, hack or stage, as the tourist may elect, at a nominal fare.

"These waters are of the saline class and we do not advertise them as a cure-all and a specific for every disease."

A hand bill, however, insisted that the water of Climax Springs would cure everything except consumption, but even if the water wouldn't cure this disease the climate was perfect for anyone who was consumptive. The hand bill advertising Climax Springs as a resort for invalids and tourists had the following to say about the power of the water and the climate:

"Beautiful scenery, pure air, cool nights, above malaria, hayfever and mosquitoes.

Claimed as Cure

"These waters will cure scrofula, syphilis, rheumatism, dyspepsia, diseases of the liver, kidneys and glands, epilepsy, dropsy and all diseases incident to women."

In big letters it stresses: "The only springs in America that will cure epilepsy."

"Evidence establishing these facts can be produced" reads the bill, and it goes on to say: "Good hotel accommodations, open all year — baths. Rate per day $2 including baths and medical consultation, $8 to $14 per week, $30 to $50 per month. Special rates for the season and to families. Fishing, hunting, pleasant drives and walks. Access from St. Louis via Missouri Pacific Railroad to Sedalia and Warsaw, Mo., from Warsaw by carriage 25 miles to the Springs. Also 30 miles by carriage from Versailles and Eldon, on the Missouri Pacific.

"Of the noted springs at this place, the principal one is in a cave, which descends 20 to 30 feet before the water is reached. An overhanging arch protects the visitors from the rays of the summer sun or the inclemency of the weather in winter. The water is pure and clear, and has a slight taste of mineral. A subterranean lake extends for some distance, but how far it is unknown. To the southeast of the spring lies a beautiful grove which has been reserved as a park. About 100 yards below this spring a smaller one gushes from under the foot of the hill. Not far from here is another spring, the water of which has an oily appearance and cathartic properties. In short, there are springs on all sides of varying volume, and waters of varied mineral qualities. "Climax Springs is a romantic and pleasant village in which to live, and as a health resort it is probably not excelled. It is 970 feet above the sea, on the northern slope of the Ozark Mountains, in a climate not governed by altitude alone, but by latitude, and the mountains."

By 1889 there were many business places and those who had come to Climax Springs to start businesses were: M. L. Steckel, miller; H. L. Pease and S. E. Darnell, general merchants; John Thomas, blacksmith and wagon maker; Oscar Brooks, a saddle and harness maker; William Gibbs, carpenter and wagon maker; Dr. T. J. Feaster, druggist; B. F. Swindler, hotel keeper; H. L. Pease, stock dealer; C. T. Newman, carpenter; J. M. Ayers, insurance agent, notary public and justice of the peace; A. B. Jackson, real estate agent; Dr. T. J. Feaster and Dr. Charles D. Husted, physicians, and Josiah Stanley, lawyer.

Lives in Town

Hockman who has many grandchildren living in other communities in the vicinity, has one granddaughter still living in Climax Springs. Mrs. Cleo Appleton. With his wife, the former Sarah Jean Wallace, he came to Missouri in a covered wagon and first lived in Smithton.

The enormous hotel, which was planned to have 100 rooms when it was completed, was run by Hockman. Over the table hung a contraption made of strips of paper which was operated with a cord by a girl in the kitchen to shoo away the flies.

The first to operate the hotel, however, was Mag Thompson. Today it is the private home, still in good condition, of Vernon Tucker.

From Ohio came Cyrus T. Newman, Jim Clunk and Hiram Syme. Newman married Symathia J. Hockman. They were the parents of Mrs. Minnie V. Arnett, Warsaw, and Mrs. Violet Waisner, Lincoln.

John W. Palmer and his wife, who was Nancy Jane Hutton, went to Climax Springs in 1891. Even prior to his marriage, Palmer, who later became a United States congressman, had a desire to be in politics and met his wife while he was campaigning for justice of the peace. He had been in the drug store at Cross Timbers with the White brothers, and had also been interested in cattle. When he heard of someone who wanted to sell a big herd of cattle in Camden County, he went there to see about it, and that was when he decided to settle in Climax Springs.

Site of Homes

The Palmers moved there in a covered wagon and he opened a general merchandise store, then bought a small home that he added to as his family grew. All the homes were situated on a city block. The father of Mrs. Burleigh Jeffries and Miss Hazel Palmer, Sedalia, he left his store to his family while he went to medical college in Kansas City. Later he studied law.

The family of A. R. Jackson fascinated Burleigh, who was a small girl. Families would go home, after church, to Sunday dinner at each other's homes, and when the family went to Jackson's Burleigh didn't want to eat, she just wanted to sit in the exquisite parlor and look at the pictures of the beautiful Jackson girls, or the girls themselves.

While many of the families left Climax Springs, the Jacksons remained. Today A. R. Jackson, Jr. is the Climax Springs banker, with a pretty new red brick and white building on the highway. He is married to the former Helen Mauss, also from one of the old families of the community. This was an aristocratic family, Mrs. Mauss being from the East.

A. R. Jackson, the father, who came from the East and settled in Climax Springs before he was married, was a very handsome man. He wore sideburns, a wing collar, and, as did all the men in that day, striped trousers, long tailed coats and derby hats. Certainly no gentlemen would be seen without shirt and tie. Jackson was in the real estate business and politics.

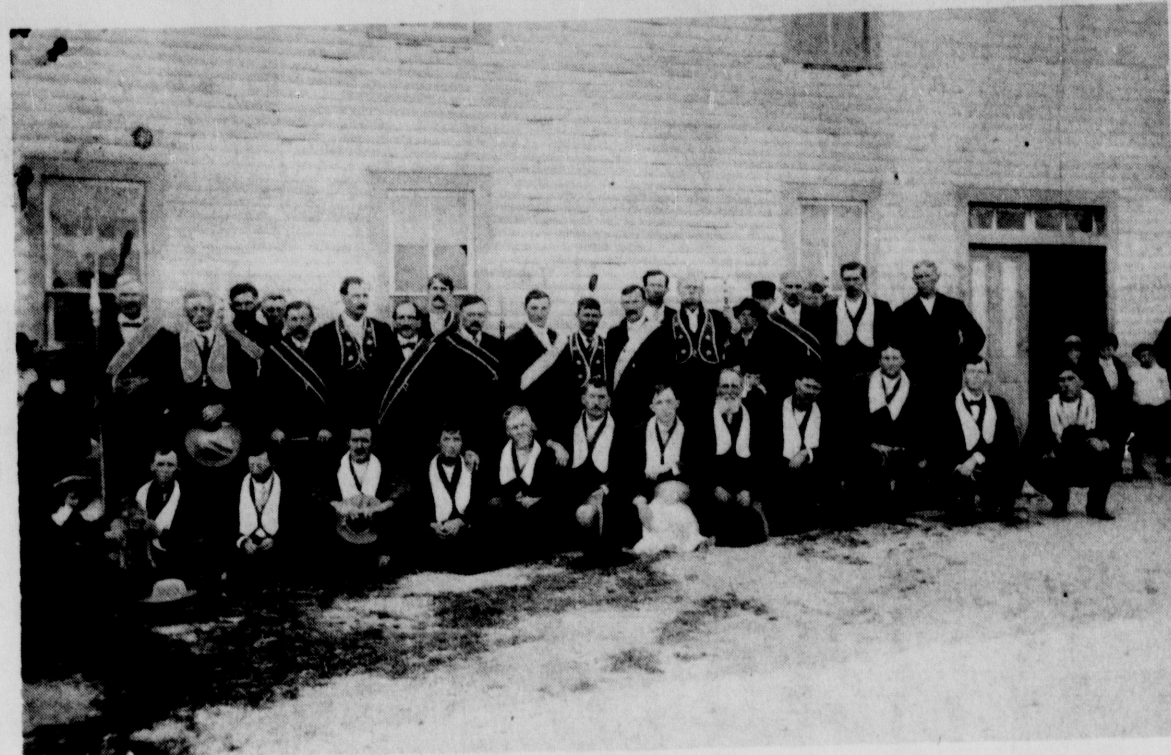

Doctors of Town

The lots in the town were laid out by the association and Henry Lashwell was recorder. Among the doctors in the community were Dr. Lee Hurt and Dr. George Koretz, who married sisters.

The mother of Mrs. Marguerite Bresee, who now lives in Warsaw, operated the first switchboard in the town and everybody in Climax Springs had a certain bell she would ring.

The homes in the town all had pretty yards. When their homes needed work done on them, they did it themselves, and they originated their own entertainment, too. There was much talent in the town and the people put on excellent plays. People came to give lectures and speeches.

Memorial Day was a big event every year with a parade to the cemetery. All the little girls dressed up in white dresses, but it always seemed to rain and spoil their pretty clothes. Talks were given at the cemetery, too, of a political nature. Tributes were paid to the dead and everybody honored the flag.

I.O.O.F. Lodge

This group picture shows members of the Odd Fellows Lodge in Climax Springs in the early days, probably in the 1890's.

The Fourth of July, too, was a special day; in fact, the people never passed up an opportunity to observe whatever holiday came along. The merchants built booths at the park where lemonade and other refreshments were sold. A program was put on by the ladies.

Picnics Were Held

There were three-day picnics and on these occasions it rained three fourths of the time. For some it was an all-day trip where they would come and camp. The wagon would have a generous layer of straw in the bottom and as they rolled along the country roads the children found it fun to say "ha-ha" and make their voices tremble. In the wintertime when they went places in the wagon it was heated and put in the hay to keep warm. Big rocks were heated and put in the buggy, too.

But time went on and things progressed. There came the time of the first automobile to come that way when a telephone call came from Edwards, that a girl had gone through that town in a car and was headed for Climax Springs, going fast. People in Climax Springs gathered to be sure they saw her as she raced through the town at the terrific speed of eight miles an hour.

In the town, too, was a theater, a barber shop and many other places of business.

The people had hoped to have a railroad and a survey had been made, but this dream never materialized. Those who had stores had to get their merchandise from Warsaw, and all produce and cattle had to be taken there to be shipped.

One by one places of business closed and the people went elsewhere. What was once the main street of the town today looks like a ghost town, the buildings empty, the windows broken. The building that was once the theater is now just a shell. But there is still a nice grocery store at the end of the block, an antique store, a restaurant that serves excellent food, and a few business places left in what was the first town.

There are still some of the old homes, too, but a new town is springing up along the highway, with the new bank, the postoffice and other places of business. There is a nice school and many of the residents of the town are looking once more to the future.

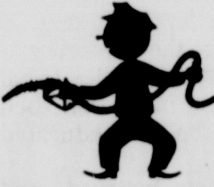

The cave is still there in the town, the springs are still there, and the hope of those like the Jacksons, whose fathers were men with a dream.

Study Reasons Behind Different Appraisals

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The matter of divergencies has annoyed real estate appraisers and their clients for years and has, in fact, reflected on professional reputations. After all why should one appraiser quote $10,000, another $150,000?

Outright fraud is one explanation. The state may want to condemn a home in the path of a proposed expressway. The owner, trying to capitalize on the situation, induces a private appraiser to give a fictitiously high price.

But what accounts for honest appraisals by professional estimators that diverge by hundreds of thousands of dollars, which often make negotiations impossible, cause bitter court battles, tie up projects and frazzle nerves?

Under a 15-month study just begun by the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, some of the baffling reasons may come to light. The institute intends to examine all opinions in which members testified, in court cases, to different prices for the same properties.

In all such instances from now on, member appraisers must file a report of their opinions with the institute's appraisal review committee. To refuse to do so might mean expulsion.

Frances Hokanson, principal investigator in charge of the project, says she intends to review all explanations, categorize them and suggest possible solutions. The primary aim is informational and correctional. "Appraising is a subjective matter," says Mrs. Hokanson. "Not being an exact science you cannot say that a property is worth $90,000 and no more nor less." Appraisers, she maintains, will differ simply because of the work's nature.

Although the institute is only now demanding explanations, it has had a committee working less aggressively on the problem for several years and some explanations already are known.

A basic reason for differences, in Mrs. Hokanson's view, is a lack of proper education in appraisal work. As likely a reason is strong advocacy of a point of view by the lawyers involved.

Such situations generally arise in disputes about rezoning.

Swamps, salt-water marshes, and receding flood waters are favorite mosquito breeding grounds. Many species deposit their eggs in damp soil, but these will not hatch until covered with water.

Hippies Have to Bring Money Now

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — This is the place to get away from it all, but only well-heeled hippies need apply.

A familiar sight around Kabul used to be the foreign long-hairs, begging from startled Afghans, conning students into buying them lunches at the Khyber Restaurant, sometimes embarrassing the Europeans and Americans who live here.

The government cracked down, specifying that you have to have at least $200 to enter the country. The number of hippies has fallen off drastically.

But other aspects of the modern scene have penetrated Afghanistan, one of the last untamed frontiers in the world.

There is a student problem.

In the old days, the king, in order to secure the obedience of various Khans—local tribal leaders—would insist that each Khan send a son to be educated in Kabul.

It was widely believed—and often true—that the sons were sent to Kabul to keep their dads on good behavior.

When the time came to really educate young Afghans nobody would think of paying to send a son off to Kabul University, so education is free in Afghanistan. In fact, the government pays students' fares between Kabul, where the only university is, and the provinces—even for vacations.

Still, the students riot, occupy school buildings, clash with police, protest against the system—which they claim doesn't provide them jobs or move Afghanistan fast enough toward modernity.

Girls have joined their "brothers" in the movement and last spring were clobbered along with them when mounted police swept through Kabul University and chased students into the nearby hills.

Many of the students consider themselves Communists and glibly mouth the talk that the various centers of Marxist wisdom produce Moscow has a slight edge over Peking.

Communists or not, these students are unwaveringly patriotic. They called off their demonstrations for a week when U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin came to town in May. The students didn't want to embarrass the government while the American and Russian officials were here.

Afghanistan has a remarkable king. He was a near-prisoner of relatives from 1933 when at 19 he took over from his murdered father.

But Mohammed Zahir Shah shook off their influence in 1963 and gave his country its first democratic constitution. He also banned all members of the vast and omnipresent royal family from politics.

Every day he sees many people, ministers, parliamentarians, and others, in the royal palace, located at the center of town. Lately he has been seeing student leaders, listening to their complaints.

"He is not only the king," one well-informed diplomat observed. "He is the most experienced politician in the country."

The king's democracy—especially the parliament—is an unruly forum that has brought out the latent divisions of Afghan society as much as it has developed the ideal of government by consent.

With the king's blessing, Communists, Socialists, landowners, Moslem priests, do parliamentary battle in the Wolesi Jirgah, the lower house, and make life pretty miserable for the prime minister and his Cabinet.

This is a beautiful but often rugged and barren land, slightly smaller than Texas.

As one crosses it, along the modern Kabul-Kandahar-Herat highway, camel caravans and groups of gypsies called Fochies are scattered along the sandy wastes.

The most famous piece of territory associated with Afghanistan—the Khyber Pass—is mostly inside Pakistan. For 100 Afghans or $1.30 you can bounce for six hours in a not unpleasant bus from Kabul to Peshawar, in Pakistan, and see the pass yourself.

Except for the scent of history, the pass is a geological dud: just a pile of rocks with a few forts here and there.

Kabul, and its nearby Kabul Gorge—or the magnificent Buddhist caves at Bamiyan, in central Afghanistan—are much more striking than the Khyber.

Kabul sits at 6,000 feet, surrounded by magnificent snow-capped mountains. The summers are warm and in the winter it dips below zero. To keep warm Afghans burn wood and sawdust and huddle around the family fire.

Most traditional Afghans live in joint, or extended, families: all the married sons of one father living together with their families and parents. The patriarch is the king of the house, giving his sons allowances out of their savings. His wife is the prime minister, keeping her daughters-in-law in a perpetual state of subjection.

The ordinary Afghan's diet is built around a bread-cake, which he eats twice a day mixed with roasted meat or vegetable seeds. Spiced rice—pilau—and kebabs are favorite dishes.

There are about 16 million Afghans. They grow grain and cotton, and make unusual rugs. One of the main industries is breeding the sheep that produce karakul skins.

Seventy per cent of the Americans living here—diplomats, U.S. aid employees, a few businessmen, their families—get amebic dysentery, a debilitating oriental malady that thrives in unsanitary places.

Yet certainly more than 70 per cent of all Americans living here love the country. The skiing is good. The trappings of civilization are there: the modern, almost disciplined Kabul streets; some of the best highways in Asia, courtesy of the Russians and the Americans. Even an Intercontinental Hotel is coming up on the edge of town, away from the bazaar's dust.

Aside from these things you drop into another century. You can see it best during Jeshen, the national holiday that falls at the end of August.

Then the streets of Kabul are inundated with proud Afghans who have come down from north of the Hindu Kush—the 20,000-foot range that splits Afghanistan in two—to see the big show. Many come on horseback.

The token quantities of mini-skirts and drainpipe trousers, islands of modernity, are flooded by a sea of tall hawk-nosed Afghans in baggy clothes and casually worn turbans. In a crush these strapping fellows will grab your wife if she is foolish enough to leave her arms or legs uncovered.

The Jeshen show is primarily a military parade—put on in part to impress on many of these tribes the fact that the king and his men have better rifles than they do.

New Role For Nixon Outlined

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon turns cheerleader today for a nationwide salute to the three heroes of the Apollo 11 moon landing.

He launches his day with a visit from Frank Borman, the astronaut who served as White House adviser during the historic mission.

And he ends it in Los Angeles tonight, presiding over a nationally televised, flag-waving, dinner extravaganza with 1,400 celebrities honoring Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

The White House said it would be the largest state dinner ever held by an American president in honor of any public figure.

The President and his entire family will helicopter some 60 miles to Los Angeles in early evening to rendezvous with the three spacemen, who are traveling cross-country on one of Nixon's big presidential jet planes. Throughout the day, Nixon planned to tune in periodically on the ticker tape parades lionizing the astronauts in New York and Chicago.

There was other business on the President's schedule, but the emphasis was on the three men who have given America's prestige a giant boost around the world.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon was "watching very carefully" developments in Vietnam, where the enemy launched an outburst of attacks on 128 allied towns and bases.

The President continued his round of welfare policy messages to Congress with an outline of his plans for sharing about $1 billion of federal revenues with the states and cities.

And Nixon called in California Gov. Ronald Reagan to talk over proposed new welfare initiatives.

The only other scheduled visitor at the Western White House was Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, summoned to discuss the minority business enterprise program.

Danger of Crime Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Each American's risk of becoming a victim of serious crime has nearly doubled since 1960, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported today.

Hoover listed the statistic, showing more than one out of every 50 Americans was victimized by crime last year, in his 1968 Uniform Crime Reports compiled from records of the nation's law enforcement agencies.

Declaring "there is no comfort in the cold statistics," Hoover said almost 4.5 million serious crimes were reported in 1968—a 17 per cent increase over 1967.

All categories of crime shared in the rise, he said, and population growth alone cannot account for the 122 per cent volume increase in the last eight years.

"Crime continues to outstrip population growth 11 to 1," he said.

Broken down by categories, the figures showed robberies increased 30 per cent from 1967 to 1968; forcible rapes, 15 per cent; murder, 13 per cent; aggravated assault, 11 per cent; serious larceny, 21 per cent; auto theft, 19 per cent; and burglary, 14 per cent.

Hoover said the increase in murders—from 12,090 in 1967 to 13,650 in 1968—reflected the "largest absolute rise over any prior year" in this decade.

As in the past, he noted, firearms were the predominant weapon and the South was the region where the most murders occurred—47 per cent of the national total.

Overall, gun usage in criminal homicides increased 2 percentage points as firearms were the means for committing 65 out of every 100 murders.

Hoover said handguns accounted for 50 per cent of the 1968 homicides, rifles for 6 per cent and shotguns for 9 per cent. An assortment of lethal devices were used in the other 35 per cent.

Long a proponent of gun controls, the FBI director reported that firearms were the weapons for 65,000 assaults and 99,000 robberies as well as the 8,900 murders during the year.

Since 1954, he said, the use of firearms in murders has increased 71 per cent, in aggravated assaults 117 per cent, and in robberies 113 per cent.

Fair Week Hazards . . .

Some isolated grumbling was heard about Chief of Police William Miller's public announcement recently that his department intended to be more rigid in enforcement of Sedalia's traffic regulations as a prelude to opening of the Missouri State Fair this Saturday. However, the edict should have the support of every sensible motorist.

With thousands upon thousands of visitors coming to this community and the fair, it is simple arithmetic that traffic conditions will become more hazardous.

Some of the gay young blades should have their long hair pulled if they continue to operate their motor vehicles as they are accustomed to in the manner of careless and reckless driving on Sedalia streets. None of this monkey business should be tolerated at any time, more especially during ten days of the state fair. This includes noise abatement which thrills the young but chills the elders.

Under ordinary circumstances there are too many fender-bending collisions because of a lack of alertness on the part of drivers. They'd better be alert next week or someone is going to suffer for it physically.

The traffic flow to and from the fair grounds, particularly on Sundays, has been increasing every year. Hence the potential for accidents will be increased not only on the streets but in the parking lots at the fair and downtown.

Missouri State Highway patrolmen have done a beautiful job in and around the fair grounds during past years. They will be on the job again and both Sedalians and out-of-town visitors should show appreciation for their activities in behalf of safety by conforming courteously to their supervision.

One particular point we would like to emphasize is the duty of parents to instruct and caution their bicycle-riding youngsters. Fair week will be particularly dangerous for them. They had better not try their usual gymnastics on the city streets or ride their bikes without lights during the evening hours.

Vigilance and basic common sense will pay off in lives saved and injuries avoided.

More Details From Kennedy Intimates

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Senator Ted Kennedy has denied my account of what happened on the night he drove off Dyke bridge and left Mary Jo Kopechne at the bottom of Poucha pond. The details were drawn painfully from Kennedy intimates who would have no reason to falsify the facts.

They have now provided a few more details, which help to explain Kennedy's strange conduct after the awful accident.

No doubt he did his best, risking his own life, to save Mary Jo. Those who know him say he would risk his life ahead of his political career. He has a compulsion, which only Kennedy intimates fully understand, to finish the work of his slain brothers.

Every day that he remains in the public spotlight, he risks his life. He is convinced, say intimates, that some demented soul will try to finish off the last Kennedy brother. He fully expects another Lee Oswald or Sirhan Sirhan to take a shot at him some day.

Yet he has stayed doggedly in his brothers' footsteps, speaking out boldly on emotional and controversial issues that might excite a psychopath. Kennedy isn't foolhardy, and doesn't relish the idea that a mad sniper might be lying for him in ambush. He has even spoken out Republican friends about getting a bullet-proof government limousine.

Nevertheless, he has always put public duty ahead of his personal safety.

On the night of the tragedy, apparently, he was willing to risk his life. After it was too late to save Mary Jo, he felt it might be possible to save his presidential dream.

This was his state of mind, apparently, as he avoided lighted homes and a fire station in the tormented midnight walk back to the vacation cottage. He told his cousin, Joe Gargan, his friend, Paul Markham, what happened.

This cousin had arranged for the cottage and had helped chauffeur the guests. It wouldn't have been difficult for him, if he chose to do so, to convince the authorities that he had borrowed the senator's car to drive Mary Jo to the ferry.

For Gargan, the penalty would have been minor, probably a suspended sentence. For Kennedy, it could mean the ruin of his career and the end of the Kennedy dream.

—Kennedy Didn't Swim—

Without saying a word to the other guests, Kennedy, Gargan and Markham quietly returned to Dyke bridge. This gave Gargan a chance to familiarize himself with the accident scene.

Then Gargan and Markham rustled up a boat and delivered Kennedy on the other side. The senator did not suddenly jump into the water and impulsively swim the treacherous 150-yard channel as he later claimed.

The idea was to remove the senator from the site

Looking Backward

NINETY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A stranger visited the City Council meeting and suggested passage of an ordinance compelling the numbering of houses and placing the names of streets upon the corners, each person owning a house to pay 25 cents for the numbering, and he to have the job. The matter was favorably considered but rejected upon the ground that the council doubted their right to pass an ordinance of this compulsory character without first ascertaining the wishes of the people in regard to it.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Modern Woodman encampment during Fair week this year will be named Camp Ludemann in honor of F. L. Ludemann who has been clerk of Russell Camp, Sedalia, for 35 years. E. L. Zoelling is in charge of the banquet which will be held in Mrs. Kahler's dining hall.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

American Legion Auxiliary Post No. 16 elected the following officers at the Episcopal Parish Hall: President, Mrs. James Franks; First Vice-President, Mrs. Frank Piper; Second Vice-President, Mrs. S. J. Timborous; Secretary, Mrs. Linden Lee Jones; Treasurer, Mrs. Lee Farley; Sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. B. B. Bettis; Historian, Mrs. R. R. Bates; Chaplain, Mrs. Alice White.

Thought for Today

"Which of you convicts me of sin? If I tell the truth, why do you not believe me?" — John 8:46

I believe that it is better to tell the truth than a lie. I believe it is better to be free than to be a slave. And I believe it is better to know than be ignorant. — Henry L. Mencken, philosopher and writer.

of the accident. Then Gargan, who was prepared to take the blame, returned with Markham to the cottage. Kennedy managed to slip unnoticed into the Shiretown Inn, where he was registered. To establish alibi, he left his room, dressed and dry, to talk to the room clerk. Kennedy complained about the noise next door, then asked for the time, explaining he had misplaced his watch.

The next morning, Gargan and Markham returned to Edgartown, where they had dropped off Kennedy in the dark of the night to pick him up. They assumed that they were still the only three persons who knew about the accident, and they wanted another look at the scene in the daylight.

As they were crossing the channel, however, someone mentioned that a car had been found bottom up in Poucha pond. Kennedy was shaken and walked off alone to get a hold on his emotions. Standing behind a car, he decided what he must do. It was his moment of truth.

—S.O.S. To Attorney—

As soon as the ferry docked, he stepped over to a pay phone near the landing and telephoned his attorney, Burke Marshall. Then the senator returned on the ferry to Edgartown and headed purposely for the police station. Markham made the lonely crossing with him. Gargan hurried to the cottage to get the other members of the Kennedy party off the island before the press descended upon them.

Edgartown Police Chief Dominick Arena, who hurried in his swimming shorts from Poucha pond to the police station, obligingly held up the senator's statement until Gargan had time to clear out the cottage. It should be emphasized that Kennedy's hope to avoid the blame and establish an alibi occurred during a nightmare of emotional trauma. But in the end, he abandoned this scheme and manfully owned to what he had done.

Note: Sen. Kennedy also denied my report that he had invited Mary Jo for a midnight swim. His original statement claimed he had turned onto Dyke Road, which led to a secluded beach, because, "I was unfamiliar with the road and I turned right onto Dyke Road instead of bearing hard left on Main Street."

My sources say he was quite familiar with Dyke Road and the beach. He and his late brother, President Kennedy, often had used this particular beach to escape prying eyes.

Space---Man's Junkyard

Astronauts Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins may have been short on human company during their lunar voyage, but there was no shortage of inanimate reminders of earth along their course.

In the brief time since the first Sputnik, less than 12 years ago, man has distributed an incredible number of his souvenirs in cislunar space — the 240,000-some miles separating earth and moon — and on the surface of the moon itself.

As of June 30, there were 1,730 manmade objects — functioning and spent satellites, rocket bodies and other debris — in space, according to the U.S. Air Force Aerospace Defense Command which catalogues all launchings. To which have now been added the castoffs of Apollo 11 and Luna 15.

Not only the United States and the Soviet Union, but France, Britain, Canada and Italy — using American rockets to launch their satellites — have contributed to the total. The U.S. count leads all others combined by almost three to one.

Strewn across the moon's surface are the remains, intact or shattered, of 22 American and Soviet unmanned lunar probes.

Apollo 11 added considerably to the total. In addition to the flag and the lower half of the lunar module which served as the launch pad for their blast-off from the moon, Armstrong and Aldrin left behind functioning scientific equipment and no longer needed items such as cameras, tools and even parts of their space suits.

It all adds up to some $15 million worth of space-age hardware.

Labor Upmanship

Little by little, workingmen are winning the struggle against their capitalist exploiters. Consider these recent gains in the area of time spent not working.

In Canada, a recent settlement gives Toronto Harbor Commissioners' employees time-and-a-half pay for vacations. The rationale, evidently, is that most people exert at least half again as much energy relaxing as they do when they are on the job.

Getting a paid holiday on your birthday is a common practice in many shops, but one union in an eastern state has now written an annual "Moon Day" holiday — July 21 — into its new contract in recognition of the accomplishment of Apollo 11.

In all justice, however, the holiday ought to rate doubletime pay because the first manned landing on the moon actually took place on a Sunday.

Evil Days upon Democrats: Lack Both Money and Idols

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Not for a long time have Democratic leaders been so distressed at the general condition of their party as some of them are right now.

Symptomatically, the picture is terribly bleak financially. There is that $6 million debt fastened on the Democratic National Committee, and the not widely known but very real poverty of such an important state party organization as New York's.

With the governorship and U.S. Senate races coming up next year, one source says flatly:

"The New York party is bankrupt."

The Democrats' reform committee on national convention delegate selection has had the shorts on money from its beginnings in January. It seems unlikely to get more hard cash than the $50,000 the National Committee originally allotted it. Only a very little outside help appears to have been arranged, despite liberal clamor for major reforms.

As everybody knows, Sen. Edward Kennedy's misfortunes in Massachusetts are regarded as having severely reduced his usefulness as a fund-raiser. Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine and some others have offered to pitch in harder, but they cannot match the Kennedy drawing power.

In New York City, always a crucial political showcase, the conservative Democratic nominee for mayor, City Controller Mario Procaccino, is being steadily undercut by liberals in his party who are turning to Mayor John Lindsay on the Liberal party ticket.

The divisiveness there and in such other major places as Pennsylvania, Ohio and California puts a gloomy cast on the party's 1970 prospects, even though six juicy GOP governorships are on the line.

The Kennedy matter, of course, has added heavily to that gloom. Everywhere, the party seems deficient in "star quality" and there is a lack of driving leadership. Efforts to produce unity among the factions warring along the ideological spectrum are described by one veteran leader as "mere hand-holding" unlikely to help much.

A scan of the regional political map does little to cheer the Democrats. The migration of Americans toward the South and West, where Republicanism evidently is gaining, promises to diminish basic Democratic strength in presidential elections just ahead.

For example, after the 1970 census three growing states won by President Nixon in 1968—California, Arizona and Florida—will probably have a net total gain of nine electoral votes over their aggregate total in 1968.

Illinois, Ohio and a few other states he won are expected to suffer electoral vote losses, to be sure, but the outlook is that if Nixon simply won in 1972 the same 32 states he took last year, his electoral count would be advanced at least four points.

The Democrats' immediate future in 1970 and 1972 is, however, worse than that. Even if George Wallace runs again, Nixon has a bright chance of seizing huge Texas, with its electoral vote boosted a point to 26. Hubert Humphrey took it by a whisker in 1968.

Nixon won one Deep South state, South Carolina, and ran ahead of Humphrey—though losing to Wallace in Georgia and Arkansas.

This reporter's two southern visits this spring provided hard evidence that the Democrats are fighting a desperate rear-guard action in much of the Old South. They would need supreme luck to win one of the 11 states in 1972.

In the Midwest, the Plains, the Mountain states and the Pacific, Democratic efforts in the coming elections may fall on largely barren ground. The voter gains are taking place in areas like Southern California where conservative Republicanism seems on the march.

Among the seven U.S. regions, Humphrey won only two—New England and the Middle Atlantic. These, plus strength in such places as Michigan, Minnesota and Washington state, provide the shrunken core of Democratic political power today.

The "new politics" as New Left liberals define it translates today into very little real political currency. The trend is running away from the noise on the eastern streets and campuses.

Today's hand would be a field day for superperfect players. Perfect players sitting North and South would stop short of game. This North and South didn't.

After this failure of perfection in bidding, perfect players sitting East and West would find a defense to beat the game contract. One way would be for West to open a diamond and East to put him in later on with the king of hearts in order to ruff a diamond with the deuce of trumps. Or three rounds of trumps played immediately would ruin South's chances.

East and West were good players. West made the normal opening of the deuce of hearts. East took his ace and played out three rounds of trumps.

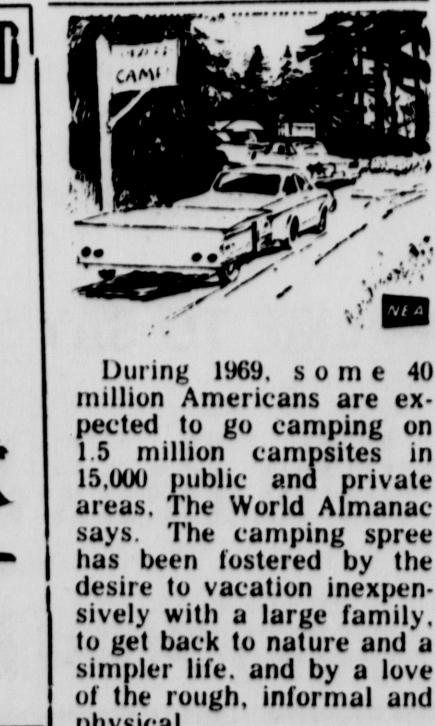

This left South with the problem of avoiding a club loser. The odds favored finding the queen of clubs in the East hand so Good Player South tried the club finesse and went down.

A superperfect player would have no trouble making the hand. He would realize that West held the king of hearts since East had won the first heart trick with the ace.

He would also mark West with the queen of clubs, relying on clairvoyance rather than any idea of probability.

Once West was marked with both those key cards, South would simply run off all trumps and diamonds to come down to three clubs in his hand and the ace-three of clubs and queen of hearts in dummy.

Poor West would be squeezed out of his protection for the queen of clubs in order to hang on to the king of hearts and South would just cash out the clubs.

Husbands Don't Understand

By BETTY CANARY

My husband came into the kitchen and shakily poured a cup of coffee. "I don't know how to say this," he said, "but there's a girl sleeping in our son's bed."

"That's Debbie," I said. "She's a helper at the Head Start kindergarten and I'd better awaken her or she'll be late."

He said something dramatic about How Can You Be Calm At a Time Like This? and I realized the man was terribly out of touch with summertime living. He apparently believes that children go home to be tucked into their own little cots each night. I tried to explain.

"Debbie is a friend of our daughter, Cissy, and Debbie is sleeping in Stu's bed and Cissy is sleeping in Tad's bed because Stu is staying all night with Buddy."

He seemed confused. "Why doesn't Cissy have her friend sleep in the extra bed in her room?"

"Because," I said patiently, "that's where Debbie's cousins are sleeping."

"Cousins?"

"They're from Chicago," I explained.

"More coffee," he said. "And then tell me why Debbie's cousins aren't sleeping at Debbie's house."

"Obviously, because there wasn't enough room! Our Babs and her friend Michele are staying all night with Jackie — that's Debbie's sister."

He had a doughnut and dropped the subject until Mark appeared and politely asked if he would come upstairs and unzip Billy's sleeping bag.

"I've never seen you before in my life," he shouted. "Who's Billy?" he yelled at me.

"It's very simple," I said. "Debbie's cousins came from Chicago and Jackie already had Babs and Michele over, so the three girls came over here, right?"

"I understand that," he agreed.

"Well, then what was Tad going to do?"

"Who's Tad?"

"Your youngest son," I reminded him.

"Oh, Well..." He hesitated.

"What is it?" I asked.

"Where is he? My youngest son?"

"Can't you understand anything?" I shouted.

"Tad is in Rick's room sleeping in HIS bed and Billy brought his own sleeping bag and Mark is sleeping in Rick's sleeping bag. Tad was up in Rick's room all alone so I let him invite his friends over. It was warm, so Rick didn't mind giving up his sleeping bag and using the air mattress."

"I don't think I'm going to ask where Rick is sleeping on the air mattress," he said.

"It's just as well," I said, pouring him a third cup of coffee. And, I carefully pulled closed the kitchen curtains. I didn't think he was ready for the tent with Rick and the three other boys in the back yard.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Best to Keep Own Teeth As Long As You Can

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: My dentist says I'll need false teeth soon. I dread that day and would almost do anything to forestall extraction of my own teeth and having to wear false ones. There is so much talk about transplants these days. Is it possible to have teeth transplanted? — Dianna R.

ANSWER: Long before transplants became a household word, many hundreds of years before, dentists performed tooth transplants. In England and in early America it was not uncommon dental practice to replace extracted teeth with donor teeth which were held in the jaw with orangewood pegs or thin gold wire.

This was done with some success even though there was little knowledge of sterile technique or wonder drugs. Infection and swelling were common results and very often if a transplanted tooth didn't fall out it had to be extracted.

Not until recently has there been any serious research in developing new ideas and techniques. This may be because a major thrust in dentistry has been replacement of natural teeth with false ones. It's this phase of dentistry that has progressed so well, in spite of some well-known difficulties, such as securing a full lower denture.

There are two main types of natural transplants. In one, a tooth bud is transplanted in the jawbone and nurtured to full growth. Early work was done by a Negro dentist, Dr. H. Flemming, at the Yale Medical School. He was able to transplant young toothbuds into guinea pigs and keep them alive and growing. This work has been continued by others with promising success.

The second type of transplant involved replacing a tooth lost accidentally or by extraction with the same tooth or a donor tooth; or drilling a hole in the jawbone and placing a donor tooth in it. These teeth were then secured, usually with plastic splints, until they became firmly attached to bone.

This work is still done experimentally, in highly selected cases but with what some dentists describe as only "photographic success." That is they look good in photographs but there is still the serious difficulty of root absorption, as well as infection and sequelae.

The lesson to be learned from this is to hold on to your teeth as long as you can.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — My house has gone up in value in the 15 years I've owned it. Will I be taxed on this increase when I sell?

A — Profits on the sale of a home are taxable. There are situations, however, where the tax may be postponed or even eliminated.

A person who buys another house within a year of the sale of his old home may be able to postpone the tax depending on how much the new one costs. Under certain conditions the postponement provision may also apply if a new home is constructed.

There is no tax on the profit of a home sale for those 65 years or age and over when certain conditions are met.

For details on these provisions, send a post card to your IRS district office and ask for Publication 527, Tax Information on Selling Your Home.

Mink Replacing Fox

Mink has replaced the silver fox in American fashion styles. Less than 10,000 silver fox pelts are now produced annually, as against a year's production of about six million ranch-raised mink today.

Hollywood Subject Of Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Bracken's World," a new dramatic television series, will try to capture that Hollywood tinsel and tragedy, ecstasy and agony of which fan magazines and best-sellers are made.

Students of motion pictures, off-screen and on-screen, may have special fun with the series since at least half the plots and half the characters have their roots in reality.

Among members of the big cast—11 regulars—are three neophyte actresses. One is, in the words of writer Bob Lewin, "a sexy, driven girl who is married to a cop." Another, also blonde, is rich and Main Line society. A third is talented and retiring, dominated by a pushing stage mother.

Their real-life prototypes may form the basis of a guessing game.

Then there are situations based on segments of Hollywood history. One show is concerned with a budding love affair between a white starlet and Negro boy, and the studio's attitude. Another is climaxed by a scene in which a great woman star stands up in public and blames the studio head for her personal destruction.

While based on fact, none is the stuff that makes law suits since real episodes provided only an idea and the shows are not carbon copies.

Lewin, a former newspaperman who is now associate producer, said the "Bracken" of the title is the studio head and his world, of course, is the studio. The series is being shot at 20th Century-Fox, a great, bustling lot, and the series can utilize sets from other productions. Earlier this week, they shot scenes on what used to be "Peyton Place's" wharf, redressed to become a Santa Monica pier.

Eleanor Parker, an attractive, mature actress with a long string of film credits, is the biggest name in the series. She plays the assistant to Bracken, who will never be seen, at least not the first season.

"If he did appear, he would have to be so dynamic and so powerful that he would polarize the other characters," Lewin said.

This week the plot has Miss Parker's character giving an over-the-hill director a chance for comeback. Some scenes, when he returns to directing, require the use of two sets of equipment, with extras manning the lights and cameras shown in the scene.

"It gets a little confusing," said Lewin. "Sometimes when an actor calls 'Cut!' on his cue, the cameraman thinks it's the director and then we have to re-shoot the whole scene."

"Bracken's World," has been dropped into the 10-11 p.m. EDT time spot on NBC on Fridays—tough hour for any series since it is a night when a lot of the younger viewers are on dates, bowling or otherwise ignoring television. Therefore it is hand-tooled for the so-called "adult audience."

Financial Crisis Faces St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mayor A.J. Cervantes said Tuesday that St. Louis is experiencing the most critical financial crisis he has seen. But he hopes the Board of Aldermen will pass his proposed tax program this week so the city's refuse collectors won't walk off the job again.

The refuse collectors stayed home all last week, demanding an immediate pay increase. Cervantes promised it and they came back Monday.

But the mayor's promise hinges on his five-point plan to raise taxes to meet a pay increase for some 8,000 city employees and to ease the crush of an estimated $12 million additional revenue needed in fiscal 1970-71.

Cervantes said Monday he will not sign the $5.1 million pay increase bill unless the aldermen approve his complete program.

He recommends some new taxes on gross receipts of newspapers, television and radio stations and advertising concerns. He wants to up the merchants and manufacturers' tax and collect five per cent of theatrical ticket sales. Also included is a tax on gross receipts of motor carriers and medical, educational, recreational and social institutions.

The men's and women's advertising clubs of St. Louis immediately called the tax on media discriminatory because it would not apply to firms outside the city which serve St. Louis. And some aldermen complained that the mayor's tax program shouldn't be rushed through without careful study.

Noise Check

An "electronic quarterback" is given a pre-launch noise check by Honeywell Aerospace Division guidance engineer Ron Rasmussen. The iron-nerved playmaker called the signals as an Applications Technology Satellite was lifted into earth orbit Tuesday. The package issued micro-second commands to an Atlas-Centaur booster vehicle which launched and aimed the satellite toward a hanging orbit above Quito, Ecuador. (UPI)

US Ready to Consider Ban on Missile Testing

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon has pronounced the United States prepared to consider a ban on the testing of advanced multiple warhead missiles in arms control talks with the Soviet Union.

Nixon made the statement in a July 9 letter to Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., declaring his support of an early start on strategic arms limitation negotiations.

In those talks, the President said, the United States will be prepared to consider a moratorium or a ban on the testing of multiple independently-targeted re-entry vehicles—MIRVs.

Brooke disclosed contents of the President's letter Tuesday in urging that the Senate act on his resolution seeking an immediate moratorium on such tests.

The administration, which originally sought a July 31 beginning of arms limitation talks, is still awaiting word from Moscow on an acceptable starting date.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union are at work on MIRV weapons which could aim nuclear warheads from a single missile at multiple targets.

Brooke and 42 Senate allies are sponsoring a resolution which would seek to have the United States refrain from MIRV flight tests so long as the Soviet Union does the same.

The Massachusetts senator said in an interview that some action is essential to control MIRV development quickly, lest the new weapons be perfected.

Family Thanked For Deed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The Lucian Hueys have received a personal letter of commendation from the Army chief of staff for "adopting" an orphan combat soldier killed in Vietnam.

Now they are composing a thank-you note to Gen. William C. Westmoreland and taking great pains with it because, Mrs. Huey said: "It's almost like getting a letter from the president."

The general wrote that he had seen a news account of the family's "heartwarming gesture" to the memory of Army Sgt. Richard Campos, who was killed in Vietnam a few weeks before Christmas 1966.

The family's gesture is to have a wreath put on the soldier's grave in Golden Gate National Cemetery at San Francisco, Calif., on his birthday, each Memorial Day, each Veterans Day and on the anniversary of his death.

The Hueys unofficially adopted the orphan sergeant after reading that his body lay in Oakland Army Terminal for two weeks before a relative claimed it. They had never known Campos.

Mr. and Mrs. Huey have two adopted sons, Mark, 11, and David, 13.

They inscribed entries in the family Bible making Campos a member of the family and began gathering items about him for a scrapbook. Mark and David put part of their allowance aside to help pay for the wreaths for the grave.

Westmoreland wrote:

"I want you to know of my personal admiration and appreciation for your generous act in taking into your hearts and remembering with flowers for his grave a young soldier whom you never knew and who himself never knew what it was like to have a real family."

Westmoreland said Campos has been honored by American Legion members in North Ridge, Calif., who have named their organization the Sgt. Richard Campos Post 666.

William Lennon

Lennon Sisters Lose Father In Shooting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — William H. Lennon has been killed by a mysterious gunman only weeks from achieving his greatest ambition—to see his four singing daughters in their own television show.

The 54-year-old father of 11 was shot down Tuesday at the Marina Del Rey golf range, where he was an instructor.

Police investigators, who said they had no clues to the killer's motive or identity, received this account from witnesses:

Lennon was standing by his car when a man carrying a rifle approached. An argument took place, followed by a struggle for the gun.

A shot went wild. Lennon, shouting "Help!", started running across the parking lot. The killer, a tall, bearded white man about 35, fired twice and Lennon fell. The gunman walked closer and fired a third time.

The killer, wearing blue trousers and a green sweater, fled in a small blue and white car.

The new Lennon Sisters series, to be aired over ABC-TV Friday evenings starting Sept. 26, will be called "The Lennon Sisters' Hour." A spokesman said the first five episodes were already in tape.

Trip to South America Described to Optimists

Frank Absher of KSIS Radio presented a slide presentation of his trip to South America at the Sunset Optimist Club meeting Tuesday night at State Fair Restaurant.

Absher went to Colombia in 1967 to help establish the first YMCA summer camp in the Andes mountains in that country.

"People in the country try to be like North Americans," Absher said. "The South American children have more drive than the North American children. They will do anything you ask without question. They have no fear."

There is nothing that can describe the filth and poverty in the country, he said. "Orphan children are seen sleeping in doorways at night using newspapers for cover."

Bob Settles, from the Sunrise Optimist Club, discussed the Friend of the Boy Day at the State Fair which will be held Monday. Settles said that 1,000 to 1,200 boys throughout the state are expected to be sponsored by Optimist Clubs at the Fair.

The Sunrise and Noonday Clubs will sponsor about 90 boys from Sedalia with assistance from the Sunset Club as needed. The group will meet at Thompson Hills Shopping Center at 8:30 a.m. Monday to go to the Fairgrounds.

Absher reminded all members of the meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Missouri State Bank to organize Little League Football in Sedalia. The

THE PENNEY STORY

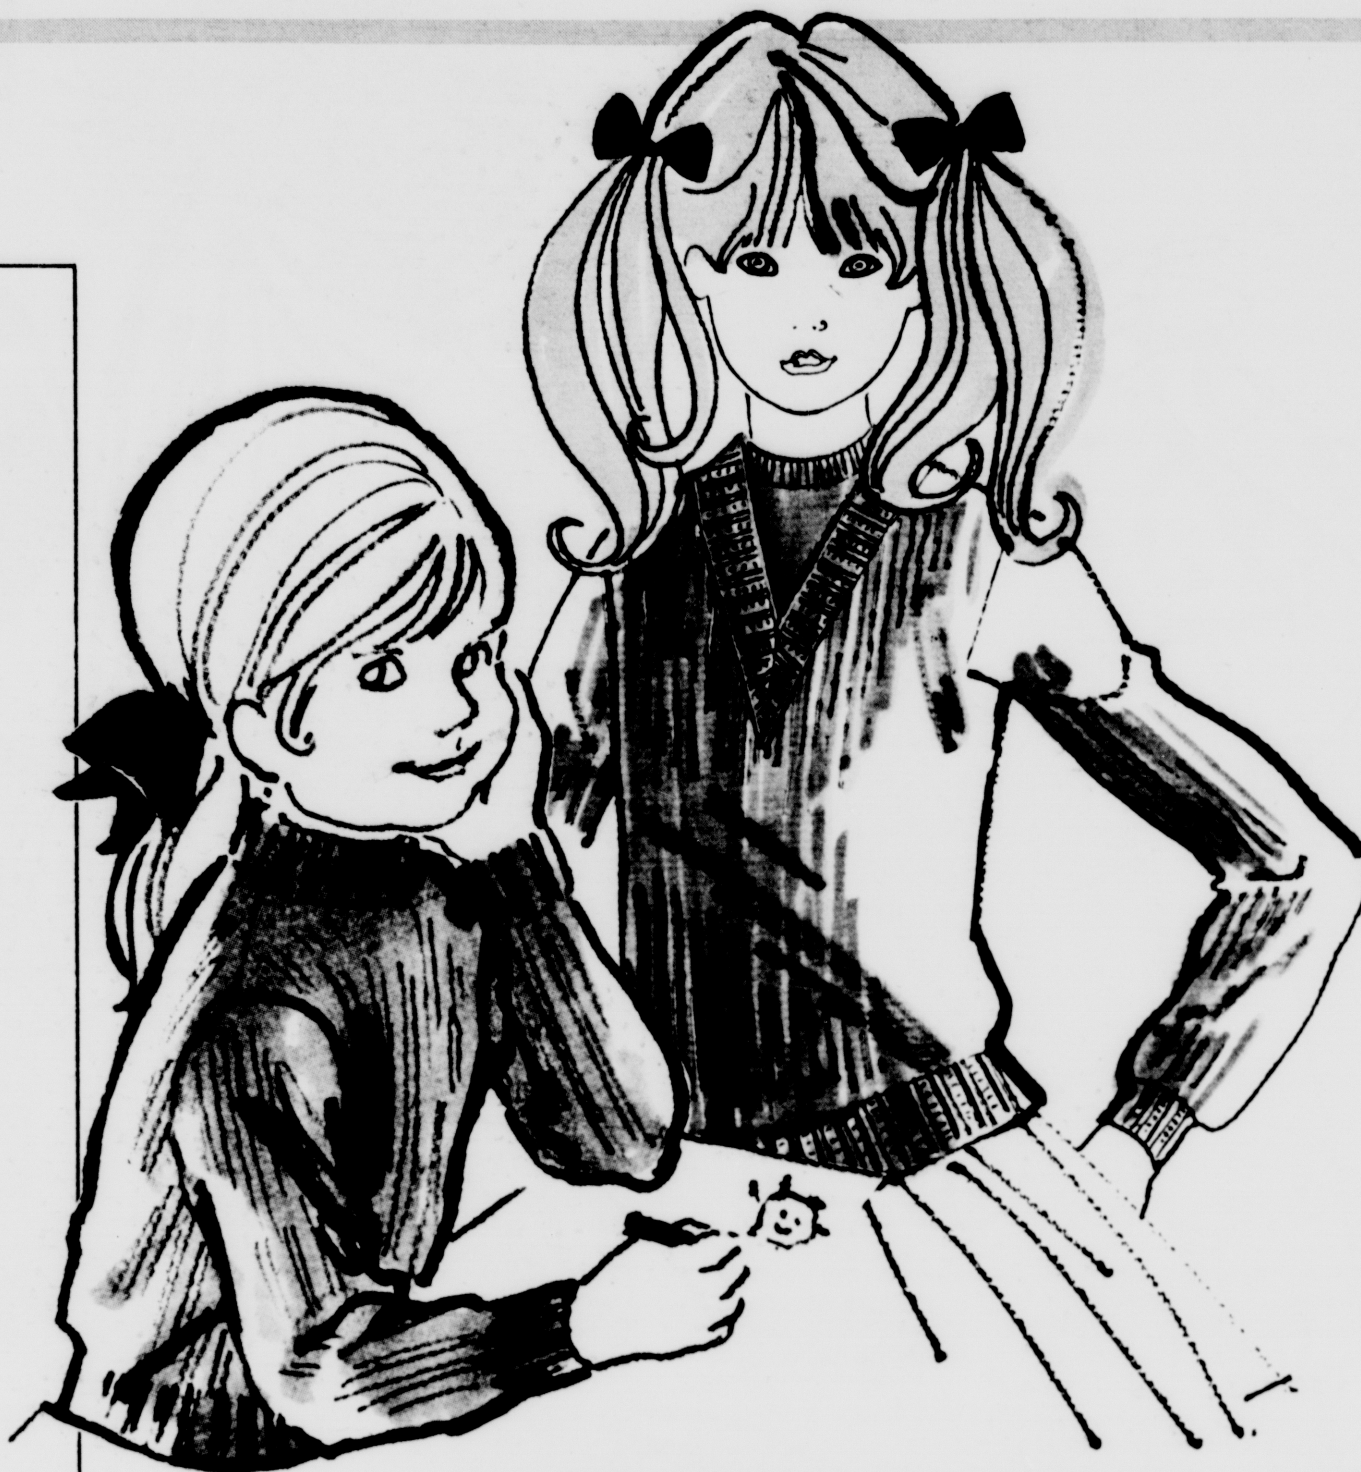

Lay-away works this-away

By ROBERTA NASH

"I found the most darling coat at Penneys," a friend said recently. "But I won't need it for a couple of months, and I really hate to spend the money now."

So I told my friend about Penneys lay-away plan. "You just put a few dollars down and Penneys will hold your coat until you're ready to wear it. You can work out almost any schedule of payments. It's like an easy payment plan for cash customers."

"I often pick up Christmas gifts on lay-away in October and November; why don't you try it?" I asked. She did.
